WHAT SHOULD I THINK ABOUT BEFORE TRANSFERRING?

Student-athlete success on the field, in the classroom and in life is at the heart of the NCAA’s mission. Your college experience gives you the opportunity to receive a quality education and take your place among the student-athletes who have attended college, played sports, received their degrees and gone on to make important contributions to society.

The decision to transfer to another school involves important and sometimes difficult choices. Make sure you understand the rules, the options and the potential consequences of your decision. You do not want to risk your education or your chance to play NCAA sports.

This guide is for student-athletes transferring from a four-year school to a four-year school. Students currently attending a two-year school should refer to the current version of the Guide for Two-Year Transfers, available at ncaapublications.com.
FOCUS ON YOUR DEGREE

Nearly 500,000 student-athletes compete in NCAA sports, but few move on to compete at the professional or Olympic level. For the rest, the experience of college sports and life lessons they learn along the way will help them as they pursue careers in other fields.

Professional opportunities are extremely limited and the likelihood of a college athlete becoming a professional athlete is low. The likelihood of an NCAA student-athlete earning a college degree is much greater: Graduation rates are 89% in Division I, 76% in Division II and 88% in Division III.

LEARN AS MUCH AS YOU CAN

If you decide to transfer, the NCAA wants to help your education and sports participation continue as smoothly as possible. But you have responsibilities as well. Learn as much as you can to protect your athletics eligibility and ensure that you will graduate on time. While staff at the NCAA and its member schools can give you advice, you need to understand how transfer rules apply to you before you decide to move to a new school.

This guide introduces you to the key issues involved in transferring. Before you transfer, you may need more information. Key people, including your coach or compliance administrator, can help you successfully work through the process. Take advantage of all the information available to you.

» Talk to people at your current school, including staff in the athletics department, compliance office or your academic advisor.
» Review the applicable notification of transfer (Divisions I and II) or the permission to contact guidelines (Division III) on page 10.
» Call the conference of the school you are considering.
» Call the NCAA at 317-917-6008, Monday-Friday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Eastern time.
TRANSFER CHECKLIST

☐ ADMISSIONS

Have you applied to the admissions department at the school you are transferring to?

☐ INITIAL ELIGIBILITY

Have you registered with the NCAA Eligibility Center?

» To play at a Division I or II school, you must register with the NCAA Eligibility Center at eligibilitycenter.org.

» See page 9 for more information.

☐ ELIGIBILITY CLOCK

Do you have any remaining eligibility to compete in your sport after transferring?

» Student-athletes have four seasons to compete in each sport.

» See page 16 for more information.

☐ TRANSFER ELIGIBILITY

» You may be able to compete immediately if you meet a transfer exception.

» See pages 17 to 19 for more information.

☐ NOTIFICATION OF TRANSFER (DIVISIONS I AND II) AND PERMISSION TO CONTACT (DIVISION III)

Have you initiated the proper transfer protocol on campus with your compliance staff?

» Other NCAA schools may not recruit you directly or indirectly until you have initiated the proper transfer protocol on campus with the compliance staff at your new school.

» See page 10 for more information.

☐ OTHER TRANSFER REQUIREMENTS

Do you meet other transfer requirements?

» Ask the compliance staff at your new school if you meet all of its transfer requirements.

HOW DO THE TRANSFER RULES APPLY TO ME?

You may be wondering how soon you can compete after you transfer. Before you can answer that question, you need to follow these steps to understand how the transfer rules apply to your situation:

1. Determine if you are a transfer student-athlete.
2. Decide where you are going.
3. Understand your initial-eligibility status.
4. Make sure you have registered with the NCAA Eligibility Center, if needed.
5. When comfortable, ask your current school to enter your name into the NCAA Transfer Portal (Divisions I and II) or for permission to contact (Division III).

As a reminder, this guide is for student-athletes transferring from a four-year school. If you are transferring from a two-year school (junior or community college), please review the Guide For Two-Year Transfers.

1. DETERMINE IF YOU ARE A TRANSFER STUDENT-ATHLETE.

To learn which transfer rules apply to your situation, you first need to determine whether your situation meets the common definition of a transfer. It may seem fairly simple, but you need to answer this basic question before you can continue.

How do I know if I am a transfer student-athlete?

Ask yourself if you have met any of the conditions — called “transfer triggers” — of a typical transfer situation:

1. Have you been a full-time student at a two- or four-year school during a regular academic term?
2. Have you practiced (including preseason) with a college team?
3. Have you practiced or competed with a college team while enrolled as a part-time student?
4. Have you received athletics aid from a college while attending summer school?

If you answered “yes” to any of those questions, you are likely a transfer student-athlete. Now you need to learn how to meet the transfer rules so you can play your sport at a new NCAA school.

If you answered “no” to all those questions, you probably are not a transfer student-athlete and the transfer rules may not apply to you. Contact the Eligibility Center at 877-262-1492, Monday-Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Eastern time to discuss your eligibility status.

CASE STUDY

Jordan was recruited to play basketball at a NCAA Division I school. He enrolled in classes as a full-time student and attended class on the first day of the semester.

On the fourth day of class, Jordan went to the registrar’s office and dropped from 12 credit hours to nine, making him a part-time student for the rest of the semester.

At the end of the semester, Jordan decided that he wanted to transfer to a different NCAA school.

Is Jordan a transfer student-athlete?

Yes. The transfer rules applied to Jordan the minute he became a full-time student and went to class on the first day of the semester. Jordan must request notification of transfer within his Division I sport’s transfer window dates before he can speak to the coach at the new school.
2. DECIDE WHERE YOU ARE GOING.

Now that you know whether you are a transfer student-athlete, you need to decide which school you want to attend. As you think about new schools, keep in mind academics are just as important as athletics. Your new school should help you meet all your goals – on the field, in the classroom and in life.

Each NCAA school is part of a division and a conference, and has its own admission policies. Transfer rules are different for each NCAA division and may be more restrictive for some conferences.

Learn more about your new school’s division
As you research schools, take time to learn more about each NCAA division. Schools in Divisions I and II may offer athletics scholarships to cover tuition, fees, room and board, and books. Division III schools do not award athletics scholarships but do offer financial aid based on academics or need.

See page 8 for more on the NCAA’s three divisions.

Learn more about your new school’s conference
In some cases, conference transfer rules can be more restrictive than NCAA rules, so you need to have a clear picture before you make a move. For instance, conferences may differ on how long you must attend a new school before you may compete.

Learn more about your new school’s admission policies
Meeting the NCAA transfer rules does not guarantee you will be admitted to a new school. You also need to meet the school’s admission requirements – including academic standards – before you can play NCAA sports.

» Visit ncaa.org for a full list of NCAA schools, sorted by division, sport and conference. You also will find a database to help you locate the contact information for athletics at each school.

» Talk to the academic, admissions and financial aid offices at the school you wish to attend to make sure the school will be a good fit for you.

What are the eligibility requirements in each division?

College-bound students who want to compete at a Division I, II or III school must meet academic and/or amateurism standards set by NCAA members. Eligibility standards can be found on each division’s page on eligibilitycenter.org.

How is each division governed?

NCAA schools develop and approve legislation for their own divisions. Groups of presidents and chancellors lead each division in the form of committees with regularly scheduled meetings.

Did you know?

Division I student-athletes graduate at a higher rate than the general student body.

Division II is the only division with schools in Alaska, Puerto Rico and Canada.

Division II’s largest school has 25,854 undergraduates.

The smallest? 257.

3. UNDERSTAND YOUR INITIAL-ELIGIBILITY STATUS.
Once you know if you are a transfer student-athlete and have identified the school you want to attend, you need to find out what your initial-eligibility status is for your new school.

Why do I need to know my initial-eligibility status?
In part, your initial-eligibility status determines which transfer rules apply to you and how many seasons of competition you may have remaining to play at your new school.

What is “initial-eligibility status”?
High school student-athletes who want to compete in NCAA sports during their first year at a Division I or II school need to meet certain division-wide academic standards. Your initial-eligibility status indicates if you meet the academic standards to compete in your first year at a Division I or II school.

If you registered with the NCAA Eligibility Center as a high school student and your first college enrollment was at a Division I or II school, the Eligibility Center assigned you an initial-eligibility status. The Eligibility Center determined your initial-eligibility status based on the NCAA-approved core courses you took in high school, the grades and number of credits you earned in those courses and your scores on standardized tests, if applicable. If you do not have an initial-eligibility status, talk to the compliance staff at your new school.

Division III schools set their own admissions and eligibility standards. If your first college enrollment was at a Division III school, you probably were not assigned an initial-eligibility status by the Eligibility Center. If you are transferring from a Division III school to a Division I or II school, you need to register with the Eligibility Center if you haven’t already done so.

4. MAKE SURE YOU HAVE REGISTERED WITH THE NCAA ELIGIBILITY CENTER.
By now you should know if you are a transfer student-athlete, which school you want to attend and what your initial-eligibility status is. If you want to transfer to a Division I or II school and you have never registered with the NCAA Eligibility Center, you need to visit eligibilitycenter.org to register before you continue the transfer process.

If you have not registered with the Eligibility Center, your initial-eligibility status is nonqualifier. Schools cannot assume that you would have been a qualifier or partial qualifier. NCAA Division I and II schools will require you to create an Academic and Amateurism Certification account in order to certify your amateur status, and your academic status, if necessary. If your new NCAA school confirms an initial academic-status evaluation using your high school records is not necessary to certify your transfer eligibility, creating an Amateurism-Only Certification account type might be right for you.

Visit ncaa.org/student-athletes/future to learn more about initial-eligibility statuses.
5. WHEN CAN I CONTACT NEW SCHOOLS AND SPEAK WITH THEIR ATHLETICS STAFF REGARDING A POTENTIAL TRANSFER?

» Another NCAA school cannot recruit you, directly or indirectly, until you first follow the division-specific steps regarding notification of transfer (Divisions I and II) or written permission to contact (Division III).

» You should only consider requesting notification of transfer (Divisions I and II) or written permission to contact (Division III) when you are ready to begin the process.

» Impact to playing time, roster spot and/or athletics aid may be a result after you take steps to formally begin the transfer process, so please consider consulting with your coaching staff, compliance staff and director of athletics throughout the process. Per NCAA Bylaw 15, Financial Aid, you may request a hearing opportunity with the financial aid authority on campus if your athletics aid is to be reduced, canceled or not renewed. Please speak with your compliance staff to learn more about these policies and procedures.

» You may write to a new school to let them know you are interested in transferring, but the new school cannot discuss transfer opportunities with you until they can verify notification of transfer is validated and your information is entered in the NCAA Transfer Portal.

» You can speak with other departments outside of athletics at a new school at any time. Examples include admissions, registrar and financial aid office.

» Once notification of transfer (Divisions I and II) or written permission to contact (Division III) has been completed and your information is entered in the NCAA Transfer Portal, all applicable NCAA recruiting rules will continue to apply (e.g., tryout rules, official visit rules, recruiting calendars, etc.).

Transferring from an NCAA Division I school
Division I recruiting rules require a student-athlete to complete the Division I educational module related to transferring (located at ncaa.org/transfer) and provide written notification of transfer to their compliance office before having any direct or indirect recruiting conversations with a new NCAA school. The student-athlete’s school must enter the student’s name into the NCAA Transfer Portal within two business days of receipt of the student-athlete’s request, provided the student-athlete has requested notification of transfer within their Division I sport’s legislated transfer window. The NCAA Division I school you are transferring from will have written policies related to what could be impacted after you provide written notification of transfer. This will include a description of services and benefits (e.g., academic support services, access to athletics facilities, etc.) and the impact to your athletics aid agreement, which could change after you provide written notification of transfer. These policies should be published and available to student-athletes (e.g., student-athlete handbook or school website).

Note: Being placed in the NCAA Transfer Portal does not guarantee you will be eligible to compete at the new NCAA school to which you wish to transfer. The compliance office at your new school will still need to certify your transfer and academic eligibility. A Division I student-athlete who plans to enroll as a postgraduate at another school during the next term and/or academic year may request to enter the NCAA Transfer Portal at any time.

Transferring from an NCAA Division II school
Division II recruiting rules require a student-athlete to complete the DII educational module related to transferring (located at ncaa.org/transfer) and submit a notification of transfer with their compliance office before having any direct or indirect recruiting with a new NCAA school. The student-athlete’s school must enter the student’s name into the NCAA Transfer Portal within seven consecutive-calendar days of receipt of the student-athlete’s request.

Note: Implications may arise including, but not limited to, access to athletics facilities, roster spot and playing time. Since Division II financial aid awards include a one-year period of award, your Division II school may decide not to renew your athletics aid agreement at the end of the academic year or cancel any previously signed athletics aid agreement for the following academic year. Being placed in this notification-to-transfer portal does not indicate you are eligible at the new NCAA school to which you wish to transfer. The compliance staff at your new school will still need to certify both transfer and remaining eligibility.
Transferring from an NCAA Division III school
Division III Bylaw 13.1.1.2 says a student-athlete must have written permission to contact a new school. Some Division III schools are using the NCAA Transfer Portal. Speak to your compliance administrator to see what your school prefers. If a school does not grant that permission within seven days of being asked, you can appeal that denial. Contact your compliance office for more information. Please ask your compliance staff for a copy of your school’s hearing opportunity policies and procedures, including a deadline by which you must request your hearing. If permission is not granted, the new NCAA school will not encourage the transfer and, specifically, a new NCAA Division I or II school will not provide athletically related financial assistance to the student-athlete until the student-athlete has attended the new NCAA Division I or II school for at least one academic year.

» If you are a current NCAA Division III student-athlete wishing to contact another NCAA Division III school, please visit ncaa.org/recruiting to download the NCAA Division III self-release form. This form will contain instructions on how to complete and submit the form to the new NCAA Division III school. If the initial 30-day contact period expires after submitting the first form, and you are still undecided, you must submit a second self-release form, which then requires the new NCAA Division III school to notify the current school of this recruiting activity.

Transferring from an NAIA school
NCAA recruiting rules require any NAIA student-athlete wishing to contact an NCAA Division I or III school to first obtain a permission to contact from their current NAIA school. Please consult with the director of athletics at your NAIA school for your request when ready. You may also write to any NCAA Division I or III school to request they ask your current NAIA school for a permission to contact, if necessary. If permission to contact is not granted, the new NCAA Division I or III school may not encourage the transfer.

For any NAIA student-athlete wishing to contact an NCAA Division II school, permission to contact is not required to begin speaking with the NCAA Division II school. However, if the NCAA Division II school chooses to begin recruiting you, it is obligated by NCAA recruiting rules to notify your NAIA school of any recruiting activity.

CASE STUDY
James attended a Division III school as a freshman and sophomore, where he practiced and competed on its men’s lacrosse team.

Before the start of his junior year, James decided to transfer to another Division III school to pursue a degree not available at his original Division III school.

Does James need to ask his first school for a written permission-to-contact letter?

No. Because James is transferring from a Division III school to another Division III school, he may issue his own self-release to allow another Division III school to contact him about transferring.
WHEN CAN I PLAY?

Generally, you need to spend one academic year at your new school as a full-time student before you are eligible to compete. This time is called an academic year of residence.

Requiring student-athletes to sit out of competition for a year after transferring encourages them to make decisions motivated by academics as well as athletics. Student-athletes who must sit out for a year at their new school may practice with their new team and receive an athletics scholarship if they were academically eligible when they left their previous school. To confirm, please reach out to your compliance staff on campus.

For your academic year of residence to count, you must attend classes only at the school where you plan to compete and be a full-time student (generally at least 12 credit hours). You cannot meet this requirement by attending your new school part time or by not attending school at all. Each school determines its own full-time status, so check with the compliance staff at your new school to find out how many credit hours you need to take.

For a semester or quarter to count toward your academic year of residence, you must enroll before the 12th day of class of that academic term.

Are there any exceptions to this academic year in residence requirement?

There are a number of transfer exceptions that could allow you to practice, compete or receive an athletics scholarship during your first year at your new school. Other rules (e.g., disciplinary suspension at the previous school, transferable credits accepted by your new school, sport-specific midyear transfer rules) may also factor into the campus compliance administrator’s certification of transfer eligibility.

How do I find out if I qualify for an exception?

Once it is permissible for you to speak with another school (see page 10), talk to the compliance staff at your new school about whether you qualify for a transfer exception. As the list of transfer exceptions varies based on specific legislation within each division, your new school will decide if you qualify.

CASE STUDY

Holden transferred to a Division I school before the beginning of the school year and was required to complete an academic year of residence. He completed 12 credit hours in the fall term and 12 credit hours in the spring term. At the new Division I school he is attending, students who take 12 credit hours are considered full-time students.

Did Holden complete his academic year of residence?

Yes. Since Holden completed two full-time semesters (12 + 12), he satisfied the full-time requirement for the year.
TRANSFER EXCEPTIONS

If you transfer from a four-year school to an NCAA Division I or II school, you may use an exception to compete immediately if you meet one of the following conditions and receive certification from your compliance office on campus:

1. This is your first transfer.
2. You return to your first school without participating in sports at the second school.
3. Your sport is dropped or not sponsored at your current school.
4. You are nonrecruited or nonscholarship.
5. You have not participated in your sport for two years.
6. Graduate or postbaccalaureate participation.

1. THIS IS YOUR FIRST TRANSFER.
Planning to transfer to a Division I school?
In order to meet the criteria of the Division I one-time transfer exception to seek immediate eligibility, the student-athlete must:
- Transfer from a four-year school to an NCAA Division I school;
- Leave their current four-year school academically eligible;
- Have not transferred previously from another four-year school (unless in the previous four-year, the student-athlete received either a nonsponsored- or discontinued-sport transfer exception); and
- Certify in writing to their new school and their new head coach that they did not have direct or indirect communication with the new school's athletics staff prior to entering the NCAA Transfer Portal.

- Undergraduate Student-Athletes: Any undergraduate student-athlete transferring from a Division I school to a different Division I school must provide their current school with a written request to enter the NCAA Transfer Portal within the designated transfer window(s) for their sport.

- Graduate Student-Athletes: Any post-baccalaureate student-athlete transferring from a Division I school to a different Division I school must provide their current school with a written request to enter the NCAA Transfer Portal by the following sport-specific date, or by the end of their final period specified in the undergraduate sport-specific transfer windows, whichever occurs later.
  - Fall/winter sports: May 1.
  - Spring sports: July 1.

Other rules (e.g., disciplinary suspension at previous school; transferable credits accepted by your new school; sport-specific midyear transfer rules) may also factor into the campus compliance administrator's certification of transfer eligibility.

Planning to transfer to a Division II school?
In order to meet the criteria of the Division II one-time transfer exception to seek immediate eligibility, the student-athlete must:
- Transfer from a four-year school to an NCAA Division II school;
- Leave their current four-year school academically eligible;
- Have not transferred previously from another four-year school (unless in the previous four-year transfer the student-athlete received either a nonsponsored- or discontinued-sport transfer exception); and

CASE STUDY

Vincent attended a four-year college for one year and played football. His GPA was 1.79 after completing his first academic year, which did not meet that school's requirement to be eligible for the next year. Vincent then transferred to a Division II school.

Is Vincent eligible to play right away?
No. Vincent does not meet the requirements for any of the exceptions. He cannot use the one-time transfer exception because he was not in good academic standing at the previous four-year school and would not have been eligible to compete had he remained at the first school. Before he can play, Vincent must spend one academic year of residence at his transfer school.
Certify in writing to their new school and their new head coach that they did not have direct or indirect communication with the new school’s athletics staff prior to entering the NCAA Transfer Portal.

Additionally, a student-athlete must provide their current school with a written request to enter the NCAA Transfer Portal by June 15 (all sports) in order to qualify for this one-time exception.

Other rules (e.g., disciplinary suspension at previous school; transferable credits accepted by your new school; sport-specific midyear transfer rules) may also factor into the campus compliance administrator’s certification of transfer eligibility.

2. YOU RETURN TO YOUR FIRST SCHOOL WITHOUT PARTICIPATING IN SPORTS AT THE SECOND SCHOOL.

If you participate in sports at a Division I or II school, enroll at a second four-year school and then return to the first school, you may use an exception to compete immediately at the first school if you did not practice or compete at the second and you have never previously attended another four-year school that sponsored your sport.

3. YOUR SPORT IS DROPPED OR IS NOT SPONSORED AT YOUR CURRENT SCHOOL.

If you are transferring to a Division I or II school after your current school drops your sport, you may use an exception to compete immediately. You may use this exception only if you transfer after your current school publicly announces it will drop your sport.

If you are transferring to a Division I or II school from any current school that didn’t sponsor your sport, you may use the not-sponsored sport exception provided this is your first time transferring from a four-year school.

4. YOU ARE NONRECRUITED OR NONSCHOLARSHIP.

If you are transferring to an NCAA Division I school, you may use this exception if either of the following conditions is met:

- Your previous school does not provide athletically related aid in your sport and it did not recruit you.
- Your previous school did provide athletically related aid in your sport but no athletically related aid was provided to you.

If you are transferring to an NCAA Division II school, you may use this exception if you meet ALL of the following criteria:

- You were not recruited to your new school;
- You have not received any athletically related financial assistance; and
- You have not competed for any previous school and have not participated in any countable athletically-related activities in intercollegiate athletics beyond a 14-consecutive day period at any previous school.

The school you are transferring from can tell you more about your recruiting status.

5. YOU HAVE NOT PARTICIPATED IN YOUR SPORT FOR TWO YEARS.

If you have not participated in your sport for two years, you may use an exception to compete immediately if you meet one of the following conditions:

- You have not practiced for more than 14 consecutive calendar days or competed with an NCAA team for two years before practicing or competing with your new school.
- You did not practice or compete in noncollegiate amateur competition for two years while you were a full-time student.

CASE STUDY

Logan, a qualifier, is a freshman soccer player who attends a Division I school. He just finished the fall semester and played in only one game. Logan is unhappy with the limited amount of playing time and wants to transfer to another Division I school.

Can Logan use a transfer exception?

Yes, because Logan is a qualifier, he may ask his compliance staff to determine if the one-time transfer exception is being satisfied at the time of his midyear transfer provided Logan has requested notification of transfer within his sport’s applicable Division I transfer window. Reminder: Additional National Letter of Intent rules may apply if Logan is wanting to transfer prior to the completion of his first academic year at his signing institution.
6. GRADUATE OR POST BACCALAUREATE PARTICIPATION.

If you still have a season of eligibility and time on your division-specific clock remaining to compete, you may use an exception to immediately compete provided the appropriate criteria is met:

- If you are transferring to a Division I school, you may compete immediately if you meet all of the following: A) You are enrolled/enrolling in a graduate program, professional school, second baccalaureate or equivalent degree program; B) you have eligibility remaining; and C) you meet any legislated Division I transfer exception when transferring from a four-year school.
- If you are transferring to a Division II school to enroll in a graduate program, professional school, second baccalaureate or equivalent degree program and you have eligibility remaining.
- If you are transferring to a Division III school to pursue a second baccalaureate or graduate degree after having graduated from another Division III school.

TRANSFER EXCEPTIONS FOR DIVISION III SCHOOLS
(UNDERGRADUATE TRANSFERS ONLY)

If you transfer from a four-year school to an NCAA Division III school, you may use an exception to immediately compete if you have not practiced or competed in intercollegiate sports. If you participated in intercollegiate sports at your current school, you may use an exception only if you would have been both academically and athletically eligible had you stayed at your current school.

If your current school did not sponsor your sport while you were a student, you may use an exception to immediately compete if you completed 24-semester or 36-quarter transferable-degree credit hours and attended your current school for at least two full-time semesters or three full-time quarters. Summer school does not count for fulfilling the two full-time semesters or three full-time quarters.
ELIGIBILITY CLOCK

While initial-eligibility rules affect your first year at a Division I or II school, continuing-eligibility rules determine your academic and athletic eligibility after the first year. Each division has different academic standards for maintaining academic eligibility. All of the standards are designed to move the student-athlete toward graduation in a timely manner. Certification of academic eligibility for transfer student-athletes will happen once you are enrolled at your new school and will include an evaluation of your transfer credits. The compliance staff at your new school can assist with this.

If you compete at a Division I school, you have five calendar years to play four seasons of competition. Your five-year clock starts when you enroll as a full-time student at any two- or four-year school. Your clock continues to tick down, even if you spend an academic year of residence as a result of transferring, redshirting, not attending school or enrolling part time during your college career.

If you compete at a Division II or III school, you have 10 full-time semesters or 15 full-time quarters to play four seasons of competition. You use a semester or quarter when you attend classes at a two- or four-year school as a full-time student or when you enroll part time and compete for your school. You do not use a term if you are not enrolled or if you attend part time without competing.
IMPORTANT NCAA DEFINITIONS

Academic year of residence (commonly referred to as “sitting out”): You may need to spend an academic year of residence without competing at your new school unless you qualify for a transfer exception. For an academic year of residence to count, you must complete a full-time program of studies for two semesters or three quarters. Summer school and part-time enrollment do not count for an academic year of residence.

Certifying school: The new school you want to attend determines if you are eligible to play.

Continuing-eligibility rules (rules affecting how long you may compete in a certain sport):

» Division I: If you play at a Division I school, you have five calendar years to play four seasons of competition. Your five-year clock starts when you enroll as a full-time student at any college. Your clock continues to tick down, even if you spend an academic year of residence as a result of transferring, redshirt, not attending school or enrolling part time during your college career.

» Divisions II and III: If you play at a Division II or III school, you have the first 10 semesters or 15 quarters in which you attend as a full-time student to complete your four seasons of participation. You use a semester or quarter any time you attend class as a full-time student or enroll part time and compete for the school. You do not use a term if you only attend part time with no competition or are not enrolled for a term.

Exception: A transfer exception allows you to compete during your first year at your new school. Your new school will decide if you qualify for a transfer exception.

Financial aid (commonly referred to as a "scholarship"): Any money for school you receive from a college or another source. Financial aid may be based on athletics, financial need or academic achievement.

Full time: Each school determines what “full-time” status means. Typically, you are a full-time student if you are enrolled for at least 12 credit hours in a term. Some schools define a full-time student as someone who takes fewer than 12 credit hours in a term.

Initial-eligibility rules: Initial-eligibility rules determine whether you may practice, compete and receive an athletics scholarship during your first year at a Division I or II school.

International students: An international student is any student who attends a two- or four-year school outside the United States.

National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA): The national governing body for more than 1,100 colleges, universities, conferences and organizations.

NCAA Eligibility Center: The NCAA Eligibility Center evaluates your high school academic record and/or amateurism history to determine if you are eligible to participate during your first year at a Division I, II or III school.

National Letter of Intent: NCAA schools that are part of the NLI program may send an NLI to a prospective student-athlete they have recruited to participate in their intercollegiate sports program.

The letter is a legally binding contract. It explains what athletics financial aid the school agrees to provide the student-athlete for one full academic year, only if the student is admitted to the school and is eligible for financial aid under NCAA rules. If you sign an NLI, you agree to attend that school for one academic year and other schools that are part of the NLI program can no longer recruit you. For more information, visit nationalletter.org. The NLI program is not administered by the NCAA.

Nonqualifier: A student who has not graduated from high school or who, at the time specified in the NCAA rules, has not successfully completed the required number of core courses or has not presented the required GPA and/or SAT or ACT score required to be a qualifier. If you are a nonqualifier, you cannot practice, compete or receive an athletics scholarship from a Division I school during your first academic year. You will have only three seasons of competition in Division I; however, a fourth season may be granted if you complete 80% of your designated degree program before the start of your fifth year of enrollment.

Notification of transfer: An NCAA Division I or II student-athlete must request a notification of transfer through their current compliance staff before having any direct or indirect athletics recruiting with another NCAA school. Once requested, your compliance office shall enter the student’s contact information into the NCAA Transfer Portal within two calendar days (Division I) and seven calendar days (Division II). Division III schools also have the option to utilize the NCAA Transfer Portal; however, please check with your Division III school to see what it prefers. To view additional notification-of-transfer information, please revisit pages 10 and 11 of this transfer guide.

One-time transfer exception: The one-time transfer exception is the most commonly utilized exception when seeking immediate transfer eligibility at your future NCAA Division I or II school. To view the specific Division I and II one-time transfer criteria, please revisit pages 13 and 14 of this transfer guide.

Partial qualifier: Any Division II student who has met some, but not all, of the academic requirements necessary to be a qualifier. If you are a partial qualifier, you can practice on campus and receive financial aid from a Division II school, but you cannot compete for one academic year. Divisions I and III do not have partial qualifiers.

Permission-to-contact letter (written permission to contact): If you attend a Division III school and wish to have any direct or indirect recruiting communication and/or seek athletics aid with any future NCAA Division I or II school, you will first need to request a written permission to contact from the compliance office at your Division III school. If this request is denied for any reason, you may request a hearing opportunity to proceed with an appeal with your Division III school. If you are transferring from a Division III school to a different Division III school, you can complete a Division III self-release form (located at ncaa.org) before submitting the release form to your new Division III school to begin recruiting activities.

Qualifier: A student who, for purposes of determining eligibility for financial aid, practice and competition, has:
- Graduated from high school.
- Successfully completed the required core courses in the required subject distribution.
- Obtained a specified minimum GPA in NCAA-approved core courses.
- Obtained a specified minimum SAT or ACT score.

Recruited: If a college coach contacts you off campus, pays your expenses to visit the campus, or, in Divisions I and II, issues you a NLI or a written offer of financial aid, you are considered recruited.

Note: For student-athletes transferring from a Division II school, your DII school can also consider you as recruited if they initiated or arranged a telephone contact with the prospective student-athlete, the prospective student-athlete’s relatives or legal guardian(s) on more than one occasion for the purpose of recruitment.

Self-release: If you are a student at a Division III school and you want to transfer to another Division III school, you may issue your own permission-to-contact self-release to allow another Division III school to contact you about transferring.

Transfer trigger: A condition that can affect your transfer status. A student who triggers transfer status is a student who does any of the following:
- Has been a full-time student at a two- or four-year school during a regular academic term. Classes taken during summer terms do not count.
- Practiced with a college team.
- Practiced or competed with a college team while enrolled as a part-time student.
- Received financial aid from a college while attending summer school.

Note: This is not a complete list for Divisions I, II and III. Please consult with your NCAA school’s compliance staff for a complete review.

Transferable credit hours: Credit hours earned at your previous school that your new school will accept toward your degree. Each school determines how many and which credit hours are acceptable for transferring.

Two-year college: A school where students can earn an Associate of Arts, Associate of Science or Associate of Applied Science degree within two years. Some people call these schools community colleges or junior colleges.

Waiver: An action that sets aside an NCAA rule because a specific, extraordinary circumstance prevents you from meeting the rule. Only an NCAA school may file a waiver on your behalf; you cannot file a waiver for yourself. The school does not administer the waiver; the conference office or NCAA does.
