2000 Championships

Highlights

Two in a Row: Brown stroked to its second consecutive National Collegiate Women's Rowing Championship title, outlasting Washington at Cooper River May 28 in Camden, New Jersey.

The Bears won both the I and II Eights en route to the title.

"This certainly is as fast a crew as we've ever had," said John Murphy, Brown head coach. "We knew Washington was fast, but all the crews were fast."

Washington won in the Fours event, and Brown was victorious in the II Eights. Going into the deciding I Eights, the Bears led the Huskies by just one point.

Brown surged ahead from the start with Washington and California close behind in the I Eights final. California trailed by only two or three seats at the 750-meter mark and by 1.25 seconds at 1,000 meters. Brown pulled away from the competition, though, finishing in 6:37.20.

The Bears set a championship-record time of 6:48.39 en route to the II Eights victory.
