In the first Final Four held in Atlanta 25 years ago, teams led by Dean Smith (right) of North Carolina and Al McGuire of Marquette squared off in the championship game, which was won by Marquette and turned out to be McGuire's last game. Combined, these two men coached in 121 tournament games, which contributed greatly to the "By the Numbers" chart.

The three-point field goal was "officially" introduced in college basketball during the 1986-87 season, having been previously used on an experimental basis. But when was it first used as an experiment in a college game? Most people would say the few years before the 1986-87 season because several conferences experimented with the rule during that time. But the first college game in which the three-point goal was used was in 1945.

On February 7, 1945, Columbia defeated Fordham, 73-58, in a game that featured several rule revisions designed to eliminate the zone defense and reduce the effectiveness of a tall center. The innovations were suggested by Columbia graduate Julian Rice and Oregon coach Howard Hobson, who led the Ducks to the first NCAA championship in 1939. One change was to widen the foul lane from six to 12 feet. The other revision was to award three points for goals scored from beyond an arc 21 feet away from the basket. Also, a fouled player had the option of shooting a free throw for one point from the regular 15-foot distance or shooting for two points from the 21-foot line. During the game, the two teams combined for 20 "long goals" and eight "long fouls," and at half time, the crowd voted its approval of the rule changes. Eleven years later, the wider lane was adopted as rule, but it took 41 years for the three-point field goal to be implemented.

Tournament History

- 1939 The first National Collegiate men's basketball tournament was held. For the first 12 years, district playoffs often were held with the winner entering an eight-team field for the championship. The district games were not considered a part of the tournament. The winners of the East and West regionals were the only two teams to advance to the final site.
- 1940 The National Association of Basketball Coaches held its annual convention at the site of the national finals for the first time. It has been held in conjunction with the tournament ever since.
- 1946 The championship game was televised locally for the first time in New York City by WCBS-TV as Oklahoma State defeated North Carolina, 43-40. The initial viewing audience was estimated to be 500,000.
This was the first time four teams advanced to the final site. With only East and West regionals, the two regional champions played for the national title while the regional runners-up played for third place.
- 1950 CCNY became the only team that has ever won both national postseason tournaments: the NCAA tournament and the National Invitational Tournament (NIT).
- 1951 The field was expanded to 16 teams, with 10 conference champions qualifying automatically for the first time. Those 10 conferences were: Big Seven (Big Eight), Big Ten, Border, Eastern (Ivy), Missouri Valley, Mountain States (also known as Skyline), Pacific Coast (Pacific-10), Southeastern, Southern and Southwest.
- 1952 Tournament games were televised regionally for the first time.
The number of regional sites changed from two to four, with the four winners advancing to the finals.
- 1953 The bracket expanded from 16 teams to 22 and fluctuated between 22 and 25 teams until 1974.
Teams are limited to one national postseason tournament. No longer can teams play in both the NCAA tournament and the National Invitational Tournament (NIT).
- 1954 The Tuesday-Wednesday format for semifinals and the final game was changed to Friday-Saturday.
The championship game was televised nationally for the first time as La Salle defeated Bradley, 94-76, in Kansas City, Missouri.
- 1957 The largest media group to date assembled for the finals in Kansas City, Missouri. Coverage included an 11-station television network, 64 newspaper writers and live radio broadcasts on 73 stations in 11 states.
- 1963 A contract to run through 1968 was worked out with Sports Network for the championship game to be televised nationally. Television rights totaled $140,000.
For the first time, sites for the tournament competition were selected two years in advance.
- 1966 Net income for the entire tournament exceeded $500,000 for the first time.
A television-blackout provision requiring a 48-hour advance sellout was adopted.
- 1969 The Friday-Saturday format for semifinals and the final game changed to Thursday-Saturday.
NBC was selected to televise the championship at television rights totaling $547,500, exceeding $500,000 for the first time. The tournament's net income of $1,032,915 was the first time above the million-dollar mark.
- 1971 NBC recorded the largest audience ever for a basketball network telecast during the semifinals as 9,320,000 homes saw the game.
- 1973 The Thursday-Saturday format for semifinals and the final game changed to Saturday-Monday.
Television rights totaled $1,165,755, exceeding $1 million for the first time. NBC reported that the championship game was the highest-rated basketball telecast of all time. The contest received a rating of 20.5 and was seen by 13,580,000 television households reaching a total audience of 39 million persons. Also for the first time, the championship game was televised in prime time. TVS, with the approval of NBC, agreed to televise those games not carried by NBC for a two-year period at the rights fee of $65,000 per year.
First-round byes were determined on the basis of an evaluation of the conference's won-lost record over the past 10 years in National Collegiate Championship play. The first public draw to fill oversubscribed orders for Final Four game tickets was administered by the committee for the 1974 championship.
- 1974 The bracket rotation was changed for the first time, eliminating East versus West bracketing in effect since 1939. East played West and Mideast played Midwest in the national semifinals.
The Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference was divided to receive multiple automatic-qualification berths in the tournament.
- 1975 A 32-team bracket was adopted and teams other than the conference champion could be chosen at large from the same conference for the first time.
Dressing rooms opened to media representatives after a 10-minute cooling-off period.
- 1976 The rights for the NCAA Radio Network were awarded to Host Communications, Inc., of Lexington, Kentucky.
Regional third-place games were eliminated.
For the first time, two teams from the same conference (Big Ten) played in the national championship game, with Indiana defeating Michigan.
- 1977 NBC televised 23 hours and 18 minutes of tournament programming.
- 1978 A seeding process was used for the first time for individual teams. A maximum of four automatic-qualifying conference teams were seeded in each of the four regional brackets. These teams were seeded based on their respective conferences' won-lost percentages in tournament play during the past five years. At-large seeding in each region was based on current won-lost records, strength of schedule and eligibility status of student-athletes for postseason competition.
NBC televised the four regional championship games and a first-round double-header on Saturday and Sunday.
NCAA Productions began producing first/second round and selected regional semifinal games and airing them in the regions of the participating teams.
Complimentary tickets for all NCAA championships were eliminated.
- 1979 The bracket was expanded to 40 teams and all teams were seeded for the first time.
NBC received a record one-game rating with a 24.1 in Michigan State's national championship victory over Indiana State. The 38 share and the 18 million homes viewing were both records at the time.
The Division I Men's Basketball Committee assigned three-man officiating crews for all tournament games.
A public lottery for the drawing of Final Four game tickets was first held.
- 1980 The bracket was expanded to 48 teams, which included 24 automatic qualifiers and 24 at-large teams. The top 16 seeds received byes to the second round.
The limit of two teams from the same conference being allowed in the tournament was lifted. This gave the committee maximum flexibility to balance the bracket as well as to select the best possible at-large entrants.
ESPN began telecasting nationally the games that were being produced by NCAA Productions. ESPN continued its coverage of early-round games through the 1990 tournament.
- 1981 Principles for the seeding and placement of teams to develop a balanced tournament bracket were implemented. They included establishing 12 levels that transcended each of the four regions; dividing each region into three sections with four levels each; only one conference team could be placed in each regional section; and placing teams in their geographical area or on their home court if the first three principles are not compromised.
A computer ranking system was used as an aid in evaluating teams in the preparation for making at-large selections.
It became policy that "no more than 50 percent of the tournament berths shall be filled by automatic qualifiers."
Virginia defeated LSU in the last third-place game conducted at the Final Four site.
- 1982 CBS was awarded the television rights for 16 exposures to the championship for three years.
The selection show was shown on live national television for the first time.
North Carolina's national championship win against Georgetown received a 21.6 rating and was the 11th-ranked prime time program for that week. CBS also achieved second-round record ratings with an 11.8 rating and 27 share on Saturday, and an 11.3 rating and 28 share on Sunday.
Host Communications, Inc., and the CBS Radio Network coproduced the NCAA Radio Network.
- 1983 An opening round was added that required the representatives of eight automatic-qualifying conferences to compete for four positions in the 52-team tournament bracket. This concept permitted the committee to retain a 48-team bracket evenly balanced with 24 automatic qualifiers and 24 at-large selections, yet award automatic qualification to each of the 28 conferences that received it the year before. The 16 top-seeded teams received byes to the second round of the tournament.
The current format was established that begins the tournament the third weekend in March, regional championships on the fourth Saturday and Sunday, and the national semifinals and final the following Saturday and Monday.
North Carolina State's national championship victory over Houston attracted what then was a record 18.6 million homes to the CBS telecast. The game had a 22.3 rating (third best) and a 32 share. It was the fifth-ranked prime time television program for that week.
A national semifinal record also was set in Houston's victory over Louisville. The game had a 17.8 rating and 35 share and was viewed by 14,800,000 homes on CBS.
The committee determined that a facility in which the final session is held must have a minimum of 17,000 seats.
- 1984 One additional opening-round game was established, requiring 10 automatic-qualifying conferences to compete for five positions in the 53-team bracket that included 24 automatic qualifiers and 24 at-large selections.
For the first time, awards were presented to all participating teams in the championship.
- 1985 The tournament bracket was expanded to include 64 teams, which eliminated all first-round byes.

The committee realigned each region and renamed the Mideast region the Southeast region. Specifically, the Southern and Mid-Eastern conferences were moved from the East to the Southeast region; the Big Ten, Mid-American and Southwestern conferences moved from the Southeast to the Midwest; the Metro and Trans America conferences were moved from the Midwest to the Southeast, and the Southland and Southwest conferences were moved from the Midwest to the West region.

The number of automatic qualifiers was capped at 30 for a five-year period (1986-90).

CBS had a record 19.8 million homes view Villanova's national championship victory over Georgetown. The game attracted a 23.3 rating (second best) and a 33 share, and was the second-rated prime time program on television for that week.

The East regional championship game (Georgetown defeated Georgia Tech) set television records for that level of tournament competition with a 12.6 rating, a 32 share and 10.7 million homes tuned to CBS.

The NCAA Radio Network reached an all-time high radio audience for any sports event when the Villanova-Georgetown game attracted 21 million listeners.

CBS began a second three-year contract that included 19 exposures.

1986 CBS televised 40 hours, 51 minutes of tournament programming.

The NCAA Radio Network included a record 426 stations, including 92 of the top 100 markets.

It became policy that all regional competition will be played at neutral sites. If an institution selected to host this level of competition is a participant in the tournament, it will be bracketed in another region.

Three separate three-man officiating crews were assigned to the two national semifinals and the championship final.

1987 The National Association of Basketball Coaches reaffirmed its endorsement of the policy that permits an institution to participate on its home court in the first and second rounds of competition.

Championship team members were awarded 10-karat gold rings, while the other three teams in the Final Four received silver rings.

All 64 teams selected for the championship were subject to drug testing for the first time.

1988 CBS began a third three-year contract. All regional semifinal games were televised in prime time.

Separate three-man officiating crews were assigned to all competition at regional and national championship sites.

1989 The NCAA Executive Committee expanded a moratorium enacted in 1984 limiting the bracket to 30 automatic-qualifying conference champions and 34 at-large teams through the 1998 championship.

NCAA Executive Regulation 1-6(b)-1 was amended to strengthen criteria governing automatic qualification for conferences.

Bracket rotation was established, with East vs. West, Midwest vs. Southeast in 1989; Southeast vs. West, East vs. Midwest in 1990, and West vs. Midwest, Southeast vs. East in 1991.

Awards for the national runner-up were presented in the dressing room immediately after the championship game.

Host Communications, Inc., began a three-year contract for rights to the NCAA Radio Network and programs for all sites.

Neutral courts were used in all rounds of the championship for the first time.

After determining that three of the next four Final Four host facilities should have a minimum capacity of 30,000, the committee selected Charlotte, Seattle, The Meadowlands and Indianapolis to host in 1994, 1995, 1996 and 1997.

1990 General public was limited to purchasing two tickets to future Final Fours.

The basketball committee defined "home court" as an arena in which a team has played no more than 50 percent of its regular-season schedule, excluding conference tournament games.

The NCAA Executive Committee approved "play-in" concept to identify the 30 automatic-qualifying conferences in December 1989. The Ratings Percentage Index (RPI) administered by the NCAA was computed for the nonconference schedules of all eligible conferences. Those with the lowest ranking competed for the available automatic-qualifying positions. The play-in was implemented in 1991 with 33 eligible conferences. Six conference representatives played for three automatic-qualifying berths in the 64-team bracket.

1991 CBS Sports began a seven-year contract for $1 billion, which included live coverage of all sessions of the championship.

The definition of "home court" was amended to include playing no more than three games of a regular-season schedule, excluding conference tournaments, in one arena.

A play-in was conducted between the six lowest-rated conferences from the previous year's RPI since 33 conferences were eligible for automatic qualification. Game results were as follows: St. Francis (Pennsylvania) (Northeast Conference) defeated Fordham (Patriot League), 70-64; Louisiana-Monroe (Southland) defeated Florida A&M (Mid-Eastern), 87-63; and Coastal Carolina (Big South) defeated Jackson State (Southwestern), 86-75.

1992 Duke won its second consecutive national championship, the first team to successfully defend its title since UCLA in 1973.

1993 A minimum facility seating capacity of 12,000 for first and second rounds and regionals was established.

The basketball committee selected San Antonio; St. Petersburg, Florida; Indianapolis; Minneapolis; and Atlanta to host the Final Four in 1998 through 2002. All the facilities had capacities in excess of 30,000.

1994 For the first time, all 100 of the top 100 markets in the country received the radio play-by-play broadcast of the Final Four. This included a record 488 stations.

President Bill Clinton became the first sitting president to attend the tournament, when he was present at the Midwest regional championship game in Dallas and the national semifinals and final in Charlotte, North Carolina.

The use of combined shots clocks/game clocks was required at all sites.

The weighing of the three factors comprising the Ratings Percentage Index (RPI)—Division I winning percentage, opponents' winning percentage and opponents' opponent's winning percentage—was adjusted from 20-40-40 to 25-50-25. A second RPI, adjusted based upon a team's "good" wins, "bad" losses and non-conference scheduling, was provided.

1995 The existing CBS Sports contract was replaced with a new agreement for $1.725 billion extending through the 2002 championship.

1996 The NCAA created the first online computer page for the men's Final Four.

Pool reporters permitted under specified conditions to interview game officials after games.

Participating institutions' seating locations moved closer to mid-court and nearer to the playing floor.

1997 Bracketing policies were changed so that once the highest-seeded team from a conference is assigned to a region, only the eighth team selected from that conference may be placed in that region.

The NCAA's on-line computer page expanded to include preliminary rounds.

1998 Competition at all three sites within each region began being conducted on the same days of the week and tournament hosts' teams permitted to play on the days they are hosting.

The name of the Southeast Region was changed to the South Region.

The basketball committee continued selecting Final Four host facilities with a minimum seating capacity of 30,000 when it picked New Orleans, San Antonio, St. Louis, Indianapolis and Atlanta to host in 2003-2007.

1999 Bracketing policies were changed so that, once the highest-seeded team from a conference is assigned to a region, only the sixth team from that conference may be placed in that region.

The NCAA signed a new 11-year agreement with CBS Sports, commencing with the 2003 championship. The agreement, which is for a minimum of $6 billion, includes rights to television (over-the-air, cable, satellite, digital and home video), marketing, game programs, radio, Internet, fan festivals and licensing (excluding concessionaire agreements).

In its continuing effort to combat the effects of gambling, the committee began conducting background checks on game officials. The NCAA checked 50 officials randomly selected from among the 96 who worked the previous year's tournament.

2001 Inasmuch as 31 conferences were eligible for automatic qualification, the committee agreed to conduct an opening-round game the Tuesday before the first/second rounds, pitting teams seeded Nos. 64 and 65.

2002 Championship, first and second-round sites will no longer be assigned to specific regions. Rather, the committee will have flexibility to assign four-team pods to sites near the teams' natural geographic areas, if possible.
