But the Wolfpack won five games in five days at the ACC Tournament, and then won four more to advance to the Final Four for the first time since the magical 1983 season

TOURNAMENT HISTORY

- 1939 The first national collegiate men's basketball tournament was held. For the first 12 years, district playoffs often were held with the winner entering an eight-team field for the championship. The district games were not considered a part of the tournament. The winners of the East and West regionals were the only two teams to advance to the final site.
- 1940 The National Association of Basketball Coaches held its annual convention at the site of the national finals for the first time. It has been held there ever since.
- 1946 The championship game was televised locally for the first time in New York City by CBS-TV as Oklahoma State defeated North Carolina, 43-40. The initial viewing audience was estimated to be 500,000.

- This was the first time four teams advanced to the final site. With only East and West regionals, the two regional champions played for the national title while the regional runner-ups played for third place.
- 1951 The field was expanded to 16 teams, with 10 conference champions qualifying automatically for the first time. Those 10 conferences were: Big Seven, Big Ten, Border, Eastern (Ivy), Missouri Valley, Pacific Coast, Skyline, Southeastern, Southern and Southwest.
- 1952 Tournament games were televised regionally for the first time.
The number of regional sites changed from two to four, with the four winners advancing to the finals.
- 1953 The bracket expanded from 16 teams to 22 and fluctuated between 22 and 25 teams until 1974.
- 1954 The Tuesday-Wednesday format for semifinals and final game was changed to Friday-Saturday.
The championship game was televised nationally for the first time as LaSalle defeated Bradley, 94-76, in Kansas City.
- 1957 The largest media group to that point in the tournament's history was assembled for the finals in Kansas City. Coverage included an 11-station television network, 64 newspaper writers and live radio broadcasts on 73 stations in 11 states.
- 1963 A contract to run through 1968 was signed with "Sports Network" for the championship game to be televised nationally. Television rights totaled $140,000.
- 1966 Net income for the entire tournament exceeded $500,000 for the first time.
A television-blackout provision requiring a 48-hour advance sellout was adopted.
- 1969 The Friday-Saturday format for semifinals and final game changed to Thursday-Saturday.
NBC was selected to televise the championship as television rights totaled $547,500, exceeding $500,000 for the first time. The tournament's net income of $1,032,915 was the first time above the million-dollar mark.
- 1971 NBC recorded the largest audience ever for a basketball network telecast during the semifinals as 9,320,000 households viewed the game.
- 1973 The Thursday-Saturday format for semifinals and final game changed to Saturday-Monday.
Television rights totaled $1,165,755, exceeding $1,000,000 for the first time. NBC reported that the championship game was the highest-rated basketball telecast of all time. The contest received a rating of 20.5 and was seen by 13,580,000 television households reaching a total audience of 39 million persons. For the first time, the championship game was televised in prime time.
TVS, with the approval of NBC, agreed to televise those games not carried by NBC for a two-year period at the rights fee of $65,000 per year.
First-round byes were determined on the basis of an evaluation of the conference's won-lost record over the past 10 years in National Collegiate Championship play.
The first public random drawing to fill oversubscribed orders for Final Four game tickets was administered by the committee for the 1974 championship.
- 1974 The bracket rotation was changed for the first time, eliminating East vs. West bracketing in effect since 1939. East played West and Mideast played Midwest in national semifinals.
The Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference was divided to receive multiple automatic qualification berths in the tournament.
- 1975 A 32-team bracket was adopted. For the first time, teams other than the conference champions could be chosen at-large. No conference could be represented by more than two teams. Sixteen teams qualified as conference champions, four others as champions from the four regional tournaments which were conducted by the ECAC, and the committee selected the other 12 at-large.
Dressing rooms were opened to the media after a 10-minute "cooling off" period.
The term "Final Four" first appeared in an NCAA publication, the 1975 Official Collegiate Basketball Guide. On Page No. 5 in the National Preview-Review section written by Ed Chay of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, Clay wrote, "Outspoken Al McGuire of Marquette, whose team was one of the final four in Greensboro, was among several coaches who said it was good for college basketball that UCLA was finally beaten."
- 1976 The rights for the NCAA Radio Network were awarded to Host Communications, Inc., of Lexington, Kentucky.
Regional third-place games were eliminated.
- For the first time, two teams from the same conference (Big Ten) played in the national championship game with Indiana defeating Michigan.
- 1977 NBC televised 23 hours and 18 minutes of tournament programming.
- 1978 A seeding process was used for the first time for individual teams. A maximum of four automatic qualifying conference teams were seeded in each of the four regional brackets. These teams were seeded based on their respective conferences' won-lost percentages in tournament play during the past five years. At-large seeding in each region was based on current won-lost records, strength of schedule and eligibility status of student-athletes for postseason competition.
NBC televised the four regional championship games and a first round doubleheader on Saturday and Sunday. NCAA Productions televised all regional semifinal games and all other tournament games.
Complimentary tickets for all NCAA championships were eliminated.
- 1979 The bracket was expanded to 40 teams. For the first time, all teams were seeded. The 16 conferences with the best won-lost records over the previous five years of championship play received byes into the second round. Eight additional byes were available to independents, second conference teams and champions of other conferences.
NBC received a record one-game rating with a 24.1 in Michigan State's national championship victory over Indiana State. The 38 share also is a record. There were 18 million households viewing, which ranks third.
Committee assigned three-man officiating crews for all tournament games.
- 1980 The bracket was expanded to 48 teams, which included 24 automatic qualifiers and 24 at-large teams. The top 16 seeds received byes to the second round. The committee eliminated restrictions on the number of at-large teams selected from one conference.
The committee's primary objective in the bracketing process became to provide equal balance in the four geographical regions, and the committee began to assign teams to any of the four regions in order to achieve balance while, when feasible, attempting to keep teams in their areas of natural interest.
- 1981 Principles for the seeding and placement of teams were implemented to develop a balanced tournament bracket. They included establishing 12 levels that transcended each of the four regions, dividing each region into three sections with four levels each, placing only one conference team in each regional, not assigning teams from a conference to meet before the regional championship and placing teams in their geographic area or on their home court if the first three principles were not compromised.
A computer ranking system, the Ratings Percentage Index, was used as an aid in evaluating teams in the preparation for making at-large selections.
It became policy that "no more than 50 percent of the tournament berths shall be filled by automatic qualifiers."
Virginia defeated Louisiana State in the last third-place game conducted at the Final Four.
For the first time, the NCAA registered a trademark for the term "Final Four," with a stated first use of 1978.
- 1982 The NCAA and CBS began a three-year television agreement for 16 exposures in the 1982, 1983 and 1984 tournaments.

- The "selection show" was shown on live national television for the first time.
- North Carolina's national championship win against Georgetown received a 21.6 rating and was the 11th-ranked prime time program for that week. CBS also achieved second-round record ratings with an 11.8 rating and 27 share on Saturday, and an 11.3 rating and 28 share on Sunday.
- Host Communications and the CBS Radio Network co-produced the NCAA Radio Network.
- 1983 An opening round was added that required the representatives of eight automatic qualifying conferences to compete for four positions in the 52-team tournament bracket. This concept permitted the committee to retain a 48-team bracket evenly balanced with 24 automatic qualifiers and at-large selections, yet award automatic qualification to each of the 28 conferences that received it the year before. The 16 top-seeded teams received byes to the second round of the tournament.
- A scheduling format was established so the tournament would begin the third weekend in March, regional championships on the fourth Saturday and Sunday, and the national semifinals and championship the following Saturday and Monday.
- North Carolina State's national championship victory over Houston attracted a then-record 18.6 million households to the CBS telecast. The game had a 22.3 rating (third best) and a 32 share. It was the fifth-ranked prime time television program for that week.
- A national semifinal record also was set in Houston's victory over Louisville. The game had a 17.8 rating and 33 share, and it was viewed by 14,800,000 households on CBS.
- It was determined that the Final Four competition venue must have a minimum of 17,000 seats.
- 1984 One additional opening round game was established, requiring 10 automatic qualifying conferences to compete for five positions in the 53-team bracket that included 24 automatic qualifiers and 24 at-large selections.
- For the first time, awards were presented to all teams participating in the championship.
- 1985 The tournament bracket was expanded to include 64 teams, which eliminated all first-round byes.
- The committee realigned each region and renamed the Mideast region the Southeast region. Specifically, the Southern Conference and MEAC were moved from the East to the Southeast region; the Big Ten, Mid-American and SWAC moved from the Southeast to the Midwest; the Metro and Trans America were moved from the Midwest to the Southeast and the Southland and SWC were moved from the Midwest to the West region.
- The number of automatic qualifiers was capped at 30 for a five-year period (1986-90).
- CBS had a record 19.8 million homes view Villanova's national championship victory over Georgetown. This game attracted a 23.2 rating (second best) and a 33 share. The game was the second-rated prime time program on television for that week.
- The East regional championship game (Georgetown defeated Georgia Tech) set television records for that level of tournament competition with a 12.6 rating, a 32 share and 10.7 million homes tuned to CBS.
- The NCAA Radio Network reached an all-time high radio audience for any sports event when the Villanova-Georgetown game attracted 21 million listeners.
- CBS began a second three-year contract that included 19 exposures in the 1985, 1986 and 1987 tournaments; the agreement was signed November 21, 1983.
- 1986 CBS televised 40 hours, 51 minutes of tournament programming.
- The NCAA Radio network included a record 426 stations, including 92 of the top 100 markets.
- The bracketing policy was changed so two teams from the same conference could not compete against each other prior to the regional semifinals.
- The committee determined that regional competition would be played at neutral sites; if an institution serving as a regional host was selected to the tournament field, it would be bracketed in another region.
- Three separate three-man officiating crews were assigned to the two national semifinals and championship games.
- For the 1986 event in Dallas, the NCAA conducted its first random, computerized drawing for the general public's allotment of Final Four tickets.
- 1987 The National Association of Basketball Coaches reaffirmed its endorsement of the policy that permits an institution to participate on its home court in the first and second rounds of competition.
- Policy was changed to prohibit teams from the same conference from competing against each other prior to regional championship game.
- All 64 teams selected for the championship were subject to drug testing.
- 1988 Initiating an agreement that was reached December 6, 1986, CBS began a third three-year contract. All regional semifinal games were televised in prime time.
- Separate three-man officiating crews were assigned to all competition at regional and national championship sites.
- The NCAA celebrated the 50th anniversary of the Division I Men's Basketball Championship; the score in the Oklahoma-Kansas championship game was tied, 50-50, at halftime.
- 1989 NCAA Executive Committee expanded a moratorium enacted in 1984 limiting the bracket to 30 automatic qualification conference champions and 34 at-large teams through the 1998 championship. (August 1988)
- NCAA Executive Regulation 1-6-(b)-1 was amended to strengthen criteria governing automatic qualification for conferences. (August 1988)
- A new bracket-rotation cycle was established. East vs. West, Midwest vs. Southeast in 1989; East vs. Midwest, Southeast vs. West in 1990; East vs. Southeast, West vs. Midwest in 1991.
- It was agreed that neutral courts would be used in all rounds of the championship.
- After determining that three of the next four Final Four host facilities should have a minimum capacity of 30,000, the committee selected Charlotte, Seattle, The Meadowlands and Indianapolis to host in 1994, 1995, 1996 and 1997.
- 1990 Each person entering the general public random computerized ticket drawing was limited to purchasing two Final Four tickets.
- The basketball committee defined "home court" as an arena in which a team has played no more than 50 percent of its regular-season schedule, excluding conference tournament games.
- The NCAA Executive Committee approved the "play-in" concept to identify the 30 automatic qualifying conferences in December, 1989. The Ratings Percentage Index (RPI) was computed for the nonconference schedules of all eligible conferences, with those with the lowest ranking competing for the available automatic-qualifying positions. The "play-in" was implemented in 1991 with 33 eligible conferences. Six conference representatives played for three automatic-qualifying berths in the 64-team bracket.
- 1991 CBS Sports began a new seven-year contract for $1 billion, which included live coverage of all sessions of the championship through 1997. The agreement was signed November 22, 1989.
- The NCAA began a new system for distributing championship revenue to the membership. The system was based upon sports sponsorship, grants-in-aid, and basketball performance, and also included funding for academic enhancement and special assistance to student-athletes. The basketball fund was based each conference's performance over a rolling six-year period.
- The definition of "home court" was amended to be a facility in which a team plays more than three games during the regular season, excluding conference tournaments.
- 1992 Duke University won its second consecutive national championship, becoming the first team to defend its title since UCLA in 1973.
- 1993 The minimum facility seating capacity for first and second rounds and regionals was established at 12,000.
- The basketball committee selected San Antonio, St. Petersburg, Indianapolis, Minneapolis and Atlanta to host the Final Four in 1998 thru 2002.
- 1994 President Bill Clinton became the first sitting president to attend the tournament, when he was present at the Midwest Regional championship game in Dallas and the national semifinals and final in Charlotte.
- The use of combined shot clocks/game clocks was required at all sites.
- The committee agreed to attempt to assign the top four seeds in each region away from a site that may create a "home-crowd advantage" for their opponents. The committee recognized that it may be necessary to move lower-seeded teams from their natural regions in order to accomplish this.
- The weighting of the three factors comprising the ratings percentage index (RPI), Division I winning percentage, opponents' winning percentage and opponents' opponents' winning percentage, was adjusted from 20-40-20 to 25-50-25. Also a second RPI, adjusted based upon a team's good wins, bad losses and non-conference scheduling, was provided.

Utah's Andre Miller (24) lays the ball into the basket as Jamaal Magloire (42) tries to block during the national championship held at the Alamodome in San Antonio. Kentucky defeated Utah 78-69 for the championship title.

- 1995 The existing CBS Sports contract was replaced with a new agreement for $1.725 billion extending for five years through the 2002 championship.
- 1996 The NCAA created the first on-line computer page for the Final Four. Pool reporters were permitted to interview game officials after games under specified conditions. Participating institutions' seating locations were moved closer to mid-court and nearer to the playing floor.
- 1997 Bracketing policies were changed so that, once the highest-seeded team from a conference was assigned to a region, only the eighth team selected from that conference could be placed in that region. The NCAA's on-line computer page was expanded to include preliminary rounds.
- 1998 Bracketing policies were changed so that competition at all three sites within each particular region would be conducted on the same days of the week and tournament hosts' teams would be permitted to play on the days they are hosting. The name of the Southeast Region was changed to the South Region. The basketball committee continued selecting Final Four host facilities with a minimum seating capacity of 30,000 when it picked New Orleans, San Antonio, St. Louis, Indianapolis and Atlanta to host in 2003-2007. Effective 1999, bracketing policies were changed so that, once the highest-seeded team from a conference is assigned to a region, no other team from that conference could be assigned to the same region until the sixth team was chosen from the conference.
- 1999 The basketball committee extended the Final Four signs-covering policy to preliminary-round sites, effective 2002. On November 18, the NCAA and CBS agreed to a new 11-year agreement, commencing with the 2003 championship. The agreement, for a minimum of $6 billion, included rights to television (over-the-air, cable, satellite, digital and home video), marketing, game programs, radio, Internet, fan festivals and licensing (excluding concessionaire agreements). In its continuing effort to combat the effects of gambling, the committee began conducting background checks on game officials. The NCAA checked 50 officials randomly selected from among the 96 who worked the previous year's tournament.
- 2000 Inasmuch as 31 conferences were to be eligible for automatic qualification in 2001, the committee agreed to conduct an opening-round game the Tuesday before the first/second rounds, pitting teams seeded No. 64 and 65. The NCAA and the Illinois High School Association formed the "March Madness Athletic Association" and applied for trademark registration for the term "March Madness." The registration was granted in 2001.
- 2001 The committee determined that, effective with the 2002 championship, first- and second-round sites would no longer be assigned to specific regions. Rather, the committee would have flexibility to assign four-team "pods" to sites near the teams' natural geographic areas, if possible.

Effective 2002, the committee eliminated the bracketing provision that, once the highest-seeded team from a conference was assigned to a region, only the sixth team from that conference could be placed in that region.

The National Network (TNN) telecast the opening-round game.

For the first time, the NCAA registered a trademark for the term "Big Dance," with a stated first use of 2000.

- 2002 First-/second-round sites in non-domed stadiums drew 99.5 percent of capacity, an all-time record. During the selection meeting, for the first time each committee member had the use of an individual computer for researching and evaluating teams. CBS expanded its live selection show to one hour. ESPN televised the opening-round game for the first time.
- 2003 As part of the 1999 "bundled rights" agreement, Westwood One assumed administration of the tournament's radio rights. The basketball committee agreed that the minimum Final Four seating capacity should be 40,000 and picked San Antonio, Detroit, Indianapolis and Houston to host in 2008-2011.
- 2004 Rather than using the traditional annual rotation of Final Four semifinals pairings (e.g., West vs. East, South vs. Midwest) the committee began assigning the pairings during selection weekend, making best effort to assign the winner of top seed's region to meet the fourth seed's region and the second seed's region to meet the third seed's region. Instead of using the regional site designations (i.e., East, Midwest, South, West), the committee identified regional sites by the city in which the games are being played (i.e., Atlanta Regional).
- 2005 Culminating a four-year study, the committee implemented a revised RPI formula to give additional weight to playing and winning games on the road. The new formula weighs road victories and home losses at 1.4; home victories and road losses, at .6; and neutral-site victories and losses at 1.0. CBS began a two-year deal with CSTV.com for exclusive internet video streaming rights for out-of-market game coverage for the first 58 games of the championship. Effective with the 2006 championship, the committee revised the bracketing principles so that if it is unable to reconcile the bracket after exhausting all possible options, it has the flexibility to permit two teams from the same conference to meet each other after the first round, if the conference has more than five participants. Attendance at first-/second-round and regional sites was 98.4 percent of the facilities' capacity, an all-time record. Arenas other than domes were filled to a record 99.9 percent of capacity.
- 2006 The Ratings Percentage Index (RPI) was made public for the first time, with updated rankings appearing on www.ncaa.com weekly. Becoming only the second double-digit seed to make the Final Four, 11th-seeded George Mason stuns top-seeded Connecticut in the Washington, D.C. Regional final. The Patriots defeated Michigan St. and defending national champion North Carolina to reach the regional semifinals, where they beat Wichita St. George Mason's memorable run came to an end with a loss to eventual champion Florida in the national semifinals.
- 2007 The committee returned to geographical regional site designations rather than identifying the sites by the host city, as it did from 2004-06. Regional sites were referred to as East, South, Midwest and West rather than East Rutherford, San Antonio, St. Louis and San Jose. In response to tremendous traffic resulting in 19 million video streams and five million visits in 2006, CBS Sportsline doubled its bandwidth capacity for March Madness on Demand, which offers free live internet streams of each game of the first three rounds of the championship. CSTV's coverage expanded to include live broadcasts of two first-round games, pregame and postgame previews and recaps on all competition dates, and video streaming of postgame press conferences that are archived at www.ncaa.com. In addition, CSTV aired live programming during open practice day at the Final Four, aired a National Championship Pregame Show live from the Georgia Dome, and provided coverage to ancillary events such as Hoop City, My CokeFest and The Big Dance at Centennial Olympic Park. The University of Florida became the seventh school to successfully defend its national championship as the Gators defeated The Ohio State University 84-75 in the title game. Florida joined Oklahoma St. (1945-46), Kentucky (1948-49), San Francisco (1955-56), Cincinnati (1961-62), UCLA (1964-65 and 1967-73), and Duke (1991-92) as repeat champions.

2008 For the first time in tournament history, all four No. 1 seeds advanced to the Final Four, with Kansas winning the Midwest Regional, Memphis taking the South Regional, North Carolina coming out of the East Regional, and UCLA capturing the West Regional title.

Rallying from a nine-point deficit in the last 2:12 of regulation, Kansas captured its third national title in school history with a 75-68 overtime win over Memphis. It marked the seventh time in championship game history that overtime was needed to decide the outcome. Other overtime championship games occurred in 1944, 1957, 1961, 1963, 1989 and 1997.

The continuing growth in popularity for ancillary events was on display as Hoop City set an all-time attendance record with more than 63,000 visitors over a four-day period, while The Big Dance attracted 167,000 people to the streets of San Antonio.

For the first time ever, the NABC College All-Star Game was held at the same venue as the Final Four. The game attracted 4,800 fans to the Alamodome.

CBSSports.com and March Madness on Demand launched a developer platform that allowed more than 200 Web sites to carry live video of the championship online, including to sites such as ESPN.com, Yahoo, SI.com, YouTube and Facebook. CBS allowed users to watch all 63 games that it telecasts during the tournament for the first time, and saw the total number of unique visitors from first-round games through the regional championship games escalate from 1.75 million to 4.33 million.

2009 Record crowds attended the Final Four, with 72,456 fans attending the national semifinals and 72,922 fans in Ford Field for the national championship game. Records were also established at Hoop City, with more than 76,000 in attendance, and at the Big Dance, where more than 300,000 attended the three-day event. Better than 1,700 participated in the 5K Run/Walk and more than 4,000 were part of the annual Final Four Dribble.

The record crowd included students from the four participating institutions sitting courtside after having the opportunity to purchase specially-priced floor level seating. More than 400 students from each school were able to buy seats located behind the basket for less than $7 a game. The courtside student seating element was one of the key benefits from the creation of the Final Four's new center-court seating configuration. The "in-the-round" system allowed for a greater number of quality seats for fans and better views of the elevated court. Students were able to stand throughout the games, without obstructing the views of other spectators.

The NCAA and the Detroit Local Organizing Committee (DLOC) joined together to hold numerous community events to benefit the greater Detroit-metro area in conjunction with the 2009 Men's Final Four. In addition to the annual Middle School Madness and YES Clinics programs, many events were new and created specifically to benefit Detroit. The NCAA contributed $250,000 to an early learning community project that called for establishing four early learning and literacy centers in Detroit as part of the NCAA Final Four Legacy Program. The NCAA, the DLOC and the United Way of Southeastern Michigan also participated in the program that is designed to enhance school readiness for pre-school children. The NCAA and DLOC also joined with Forgotten Harvest, a Detroit-only mobile food rescue organization, to distribute more than 1,000 pounds of leftover food to hungry Detroit residents. The NCAA worked with the Tyler Ugolyn Foundation to dedicate a "Tyler's Court" at the Boll Family YMCA gymnasium. The court is in memory of Tyler Ugolyn, a former student-athlete at Columbia University. Other highlights included the donation of 11,000 Wilson® basketball uniforms to needy youth basketball programs, and the donation of more than 1,000 pairs of shoes through collaboration with Samaritan's Feet and the NABC.

In addition to its telecast on CBS and availability online via March Madness on Demand, the 2009 Final Four was distributed to 153 countries around the world, and was shown on the Armed Forces Network. Westwood One Radio brought the game to listeners of more than 450 affiliates nationwide, as well as to the American Forces Radio Network, which included 170 countries and 150 ships at sea. The games were also heard on Sirius/XM satellite radio and online at www.ncaa.com/mmod.

The Division I Men's Basketball Committee eliminated the results in a team's final 12 games as criteria for selection into the tournament.

For the first time since 2001, there were at least 10 instances of a lower-seeded team defeating a higher-seeded team in the first round. Three No. 10 and three No. 12 teams were victorious in the first round, as were two No. 9 teams, a No. 11 and a No. 13. From there, however, the higher seeds took over, with all four Nos. 1, 2 and 3 seeds making it to the Sweet 16, along with two No. 4 seeds and a No. 5 seed. No. 12 Arizona was the other Sweet 16 team.

The Big East Conference became the first league to have three teams seeded No. 1 (overall top seed Louisville, Pittsburgh and Connecticut) and the first to send five teams to the Sweet 16, with Villanova and Syracuse also advancing to the regional round.

Basketball legends Earvin "Magic" Johnson and Larry Bird marked the 30th anniversary of the 1979 title game between Michigan St. and Indiana St. by presenting the game ball prior to the national championship game.

2010 The NCAA announced it would exercise a clause in its contract with CBS, signed in 1999, to opt out of the deal in order to sign a new 14-year, $10.8 billion deal with CBS Sports and Turner Broadcasting. The television, internet and wireless rights agreement also calls for CBS and Turner to collaborate on the NCAA's corporate marketing program. In addition, all tournament games will be shown live across the country (on CBS, TBS, TNT and truTV), which is a first in the championship's history. The new agreement also involves an expansion of the tournament to include 68 teams. It is the first expansion since the field went from 64 to 65 teams in advance of the 2001 championship.

At its annual summer meeting, the men's basketball committee elected to have two of the first-round games feature the last four teams of the overall seed list (Nos. 65-68). The other two games will pit the last four at-large teams selected to the field against each other. It marks the first time in tournament history that the final at-large teams will be revealed to the public.

The four games will not be known as opening round games. Rather, the games will constitute the first round of the championship and will be branded as the First Four. Games formerly considered first- and second-round games will now be referred to as second- and third-round games.

All 68 teams in the tournament earn a unit in the Basketball Fund, with each advancing institution earning an additional unit leading up to the Final Four.

In addition to CBS' national telecast, the 2010 Men's Final Four was distributed to 178 countries around the world. Westwood One Radio broadcast the games to more than 450 affiliates nationwide, and the Armed Forces Network provided coverage to 175 countries and 140 ships at sea.

A revamped Bracket Town (formerly known as Hoop City) was a five-day fan fest that attracted nearly 53,000 people. It contained entirely new interactive exhibits, including an NCAA Championships Zone, where fans could step into a championship experience from some of the other 23 NCAA sports, and a number of new technology-based interactives. There was also a new large scale gaming area featuring Electronic Arts' NCAA Basketball video games and a 2010 Bracket Town video game tournament. The Bracket Town Competition Zones featured 12 basketball courts for exhibitions, basketball training, and fan games, including State Farm's fan 3-Point and Skills Challenge Courts, the Coca-Cola fan Slam Dunk court, and served as the site of the POWERADE 3v3 Tournament. Bracket Town also debuted its new 2,500 seat Center Court Arena.

The NCAA's community outreach activities continued to thrive. Thousands of pairs of shoes and boxes of food were distributed through the Samaritan's Feet and Feed the Hungry organizations. The NCAA continued its partnerships with the Tyler Ugolyn Foundation, the Sports Career and College Expo, the USBWA Writing Workshop and youth programs such as Middle School Madness and the Boy Scouts of America. In addition, the NCAA committed $20,000 to the Common Goal Initiative to help improve graduate rates in the city, promoted to Final Four visitors the annual King-Kennedy Commemoration, assisted the Indiana Blood Center by conducting a blood drive, and donated more than 1,100 sports equipment items to the Geared for Health program.

A total of 142,228 fans attended the two Final Four sessions. The attendance figures from the national semifinals, the national championship game and the combined attendance number were the second-highest in Final Four history.

For the second year in a row, the Final Four featured a local flavor. A year after Michigan St. advanced to the Final Four in Detroit, Indianapolis-based Butler University made it to the championship game in front of a partisan crowd at Lucas Oil Stadium. It was the sixth Final Four hosted by the city, in the third different venue.

Duke won its fourth national championship, becoming the fifth school (UCLA, 11; Kentucky, 7; Indiana, 5; and North Carolina, 4) to win at least four titles. The Blue Devils edged Butler, 61-59 when a mid-court shot by Butler's Gordon Hayward rimmed out at the buzzer.

For the second consecutive year, 10 lower-seeded teams defeated higher-seeded teams in the first round, highlighted by No. 14 Ohio beating third-seeded Georgetown. The Bobcats were the No. 9 seed in the Mid-American Conference tournament but advanced to the NCAA tournament by winning the MAC tourney before upsetting the Hoyas.

UConn players celebrate as the final buzzer sounds following the 2011 championship game held in Reliant Stadium in Houston. UConn defeated Butler 53-41 to claim the championship title.

2011 As a result of the new television and Internet rights deal that the NCAA reached with Turner Sports and CBS in April 2010, all 67 games of the championship were televised nationally on CBS, TNT, TBS or truTV. In the previous eight years (2003-10), only eight games were available in their entirety nationally to television viewers. The first week of the tournament, including the First Four, recorded a 5.5 rating, a 15% increase from 2010. In addition, the first week recorded the most viewers in more than 17 years while averaging 8.4 million viewers per game. Overall, the television rating for the tournament was a 6.4, up seven percent from 2010 and up 12 percent from 2009.

The single-session attendance record was set on semifinal Saturday, as 75,421 fans packed Reliant Stadium. Another 70,376 fans attended the championship game, bringing the total Final Four attendance to an all-time record total of 145,797.

Online and mobile viewers were treated to added features that enhanced the viewing experience. For the first time, March Madness on Demand (MMOD) was available free to iPad and iPhone users in addition to online via NCAA.com. Despite the increased availability of games on TV, total visits to MMOD platforms, including broadband and mobile, were up 63 percent. In addition over 13.7 million total hours of streaming video was consumed through the MMOD broadband application and iPad and iPhone apps.

VCU, a team the Division I Men's Basketball Committee was criticized for selecting it as an at-large team, made history by winning a game against Southern California in the inaugural First Four, the quartet of first-round games that opened the tournament. VCU, an 11 seed, then defeated Georgetown, Purdue, Florida State and top-seeded Kansas to advance to the school's first Final Four. The Rams were the only at-large team to advance to Houston.

The Butler Bulldogs advanced to the 2010 championship game and people called it a once-in-a-lifetime accomplishment. One year later, Butler was back in the title game, defeating Old Dominion at the buzzer, top-seeded Pittsburgh by one point, Wisconsin and Florida in overtime to get back to the Final Four. The Bulldogs then got by VCU before losing in the national title game to Connecticut.

Speaking of UConn, the Huskies won their third national championship since 1999 with their victory over Butler. Connecticut won five games in five days to capture the Big East Conference championship, and defeated Bucknell, Cincinnati, San Diego St., Arizona and Kentucky to set up the championship showdown with the Bulldogs. At 68, Connecticut coach Jim Calhoun became the oldest coach to ever win the national championship and he joined John Wooden, Adolph Rupp, Mike Krzyzewski and Bobby Knight as the only coaches to win at least three titles.

The Big East Conference shattered the record for most teams from one league to earn spots in the tournament field, as 10 at-large teams were selected and joined automatic qualifier Connecticut to give the Big East 11 teams in the championship. Because of this, clauses to the principles and procedures had to be exercised, resulting in Big East teams Connecticut and Cincinnati, as well as Syracuse and Marquette, playing in the third round. Normal procedures call for league teams to not face one another before the regional final.

The 2011 championship featured 20 games decided by three points or fewer, or went to overtime. That is the second-highest total in tournament history, trailing only the 24 such games in the 1990 championship. The tournament marked only the third time since seeding began in 1979 that a No. 1 seed failed to make the Final Four (1980 and 2006 were the others), and it was the first time that neither a No. 1 seed nor a No. 2 seed advanced to the Final Four.

2012 The University of Kentucky captured the school's eighth national title in its illustrious history, defeating fellow powerhouse Kansas 67-59 in the championship game. Freshman Anthony Davis had only six points on 1-10 shooting from the floor, but contributed 16 rebounds, six blocks, five assists and three steals against the Jayhawks en route to becoming the fourth freshman in tournament history to garner Most Outstanding Player honors.

Working with television partners from Turner and CBS, the Division I Men's Basketball Committee decided that teams advancing from the First Four would be exempt from playing the first game of the first session at a second-round site.

The committee's ranking of the 68 tournament teams, commonly known as the overall seed list, was revealed publicly for the first time. The unveiling took place during "Hardcore Brackets," an hour-long special that aired at 7 p.m. EST on truTV to help the public's understanding of the selection, seeding and bracketing process.

The Super 10 Fan Selection Committee consisted of contest winners from entrants who submitted videos via the March Madness Facebook page. Winners were flown to Atlanta and spent three days in deliberations regarding the tournament field during the actual selection weekend. The fan committee had access to Nitty Gritty reports and team sheets, which for the first time were released to the public each week during the season.

1,566 media members were credentialed for the 2012 NCAA Men's Final Four, the most ever. CBS Sports and Turner Sports' coverage of the 2012 Final Four on Saturday, March 31 earned an average fast national household rating/share of 9.0/17, which was the highest rated Final Four since 2005. The rating was up 1 percent from last year's 8.9/17.

For the second time in tournament history, all 67 games were broadcast nationally through the NCAA's new agreement with Turner Sports and CBS. Beyond the national reach, games were broadcast internationally via ESPN International to more than 200 countries across the globe. These include Australia, Brazil, Canada, China, Egypt, France, Germany, Greece, India, Israel, Italy, Japan, Mexico, New Zealand, Russia, Saudi Arabia, South Africa, South Korea and Spain. In addition to its national and global telecast and online availability via March Madness Live, the 2012 NCAA Men's Final Four had the potential to be viewed by approximately one million U.S. Armed Forces, Department of Defense civilian employees and their families stationed overseas and aboard 140 U.S. Navy ships at sea via the American Armed Forces Radio Network.

The First Four was highlighted by two amazing comebacks on the same night. BYU trailed Iona by 25 points in the first half, but rallied for a 78-72 win, marking the largest comeback in NCAA tournament history. That came on the heels of the night's first game, which saw Western Kentucky defeat Mississippi Valley St. 59-58, despite trailing by 16 points with five minutes left in the game. The games were played in front of President Barack Obama and British Prime Minister David Cameron.

2013 The University of Louisville captured its first national championship since 1986, and third in school history, with a thrilling 82-76 win over Michigan. The Cardinals were led by Luke Hancock, who became the first non-starter in tournament history to earn Most Outstanding Player honors. Louisville was also inspired by Kevin Ware, who despite suffering a broken leg in the Cardinals' victory over Duke in the regional final, accompanied his team on the trip to Atlanta for the Final Four. Rick Pitino became the first coach to win titles at two different schools, having previously won a championship at Kentucky. However, a 2018 Committee on Infractions ruling resulted in Louisville vacating its appearance in the 2012-2015 tournaments, including its 2012 Final Four appearance and its 2013 national championship.

The national championship game at the Georgia Dome was attended by 74,326 fans, establishing an all-time record for the title game crowd. Saturday's semifinals drew 75,350, bringing the two-session total to a record 149,676 fans in attendance at the Final Four.

For the first time in history, the Division II and Division III championship games were played in the same city as the Final Four. More than 6,200 fans watched Amherst defeat Mary Hardin-Baylor in the Division III game, and then better than 7,700 watched Drury rally to beat Metro St. in the Division II game. The games were played at Philips Arena in downtown Atlanta.

Wichita State became the first Missouri Valley Conference school to advance to the Final Four since the 1979 Indiana State team led by Larry Bird. The ninth-seeded Shockers beat eighth-seeded Pittsburgh, No. 1 Gonzaga, 13th-seeded La Salle and No. 2 Ohio State to advance to Atlanta out of the West Regional. The Shockers had a 12-point lead in the second half of the national semifinals before falling to Louisville 72-68. The other semifinal featured the first meeting in tournament history between No. 4 seeds, with South Region champion Michigan edging East Region champion Syracuse, 61-56.

The NCAA celebrated 75 years of March Madness, culminating with the selection of the top 15 players, as well as the top team and top moment in tournament history. The top team, as chosen by fan voting on NCAA.com and a panel of experts that included former committee members, the NABC and USBWA, was the 1976 Indiana team that finished 32-0. The top moment was Christian Laettner's shot at the buzzer that gave Duke a 104-103 overtime win over Kentucky in the 1992 East Regional championship game. The 15 players selected were Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Larry Bird, Bill Bradley, Patrick Ewing, Grant Hill, Magic Johnson, Michael Jordan, Christian Laettner, Jerry Lucas, Danny Manning, Hakeem Olajuwon, Oscar Robertson, Bill Russell, Bill Walton and Jerry West.

The NCAA created additional courtside seating for fans at all rounds of the championship, providing fans of the participating teams, specifically family and friends of the coaches and student-athletes, seats closer to the court. Military personnel were also provided with better seats, while other fans were afforded the opportunity to purchase premium seating.

There have only been seven instances when a No. 15 seed has defeated a No. 2 seed, but three of those games have taken place in the last two years. A year after Lehigh beat Duke and Norfolk St. shocked Missouri, Florida Gulf Coast made its first tournament appearance a memorable one. The Eagles stunned Georgetown and San Diego St. to become the first 15-seed to reach the Sweet 16.

For the fourth time in five years, there were 10 occurrences of a lower-seeded team defeating a higher-seeded team in the round of 64. In addition to Florida Gulf Coast's win, one 14-seed, a 13, three 12s, an 11-seed, a 10 and two No. 9s advanced to the third round. Since the field expanded to 64 teams in 1985, the 2013 tournament marked only the second time that at least one team seeded 9th, 10th, 11th, 12th, 13th, 14th and 15th won a tournament game. The other year was 1991.

2014 New bracketing principles adopted by the Division I men's basketball committee in the summer of 2013 were used for the first time, leading to every team staying on its true seed line. The new principles allow for teams from the same conference to meet as early as the round of 32 if they only played each other once during the season, to include the conference tournament. If the teams played twice, they may not meet until the Sweet 16, and if they played three times, they may not play until the regional final. In addition, the top four teams from a conference shall be in separate regions, if they are seeded on the first four lines (top 16 seeds).

Connecticut won its fourth national title -- all since 1999 -- by becoming the first seventh-seeded team to capture the championship. Led by Most Outstanding Player Shabaaz Napier, the Huskies escaped Saint Joseph's in the round of 64, winning in overtime. UConn then upset second-seeded Villanova to get to the Sweet 16, where it knocked off third-seeded Iowa St. and fourth-seeded Michigan St. to win the East Regional and reach the Final Four. In the national semifinals, the Huskies rallied from an early 12-point deficit to beat Florida, the tournament's overall top seed. Connecticut never trailed in the title game, holding off Kentucky, 60-54 to give former player Kevin Ollie a championship in his first tournament as UConn's head coach.

UConn was a No. 7 seed in the East Regional, while Kentucky was the No. 8 seed in the Midwest. The combined seed total (15) for the championship game was the highest in tournament history, easily breaking the record of 11 when third-seeded Connecticut beat No. 8 Butler in the 2011 championship game.

The two-session North Texas Final Four attendance totaled 158,682 fans in AT&T Stadium, setting the record for the highest ever attendance and surpassing the 2013 Final Four in Atlanta by 9,006 fans. This year marked the highest attended national championship game with 79,238 fans, exceeding the previous record, also Atlanta in 2013, by 4,912 fans. It also marks the highest attended semifinals in tournament history with 79,444 fans, besting the previous record from the 2011 Final Four at Reliant Stadium in Houston by 4,023 fans. In total, 739,189 fans attended the 36 sessions of the 2014 Division I Men's Basketball tournament.

A record-breaking 1,829 media credentials were issued for the Final Four.

For the first time, the national semifinals were carried on cable television as Turner's TBS Network carried Saturday's Final Four games. The two games (Kentucky-Wisconsin and Connecticut-Florida) were the two most viewed college basketball games in cable television history, with 16.3 million watching the second game (Kentucky edging Wisconsin) and 11.7 watching the first game. Nearly 40 million people watched CBS's telecast of the national championship game.

In addition to the record-breaking television audience, more people tuned in using NCAA March Madness Live. Across online and mobile (tablets and smart phones) platforms, the two semifinal games netted 3.8 million live streams for an increase of 76 percent over last year. The doubleheader also combined to register more than one million hours of live video consumed, up 37 percent over 2013. Over the course of the tournament, 9.9 million unique viewers (up 9 percent from 2013) streamed 70 million live video streams (up 42 percent from 2013). A total of 15.1 million live hours were watched (up 7 percent from 2013). The NCAA March Madness Live app was downloaded more than 4.5 million times. According to Social Guide, the National Semifinals tallied more than 1.8 million tweets -- that were seen by nearly 200 million followers -- for a 36 percent increase over last year. NCAA Final Four social media accounts saw a 39 percent growth in social media audience to approximately 1.3 million people, and recorded approximately 43.2 million impressions during the entire Final Four, including the national championship game.

2015 In the fall of 2015, the committee selected the following future Final Four sites: Phoenix (2017), San Antonio (2018), Minneapolis (2019), Atlanta (2020) and Indianapolis (2021). The committee also announced preliminary round sites for the 2016-18 championships.

Starting with the 2016 tournament, the first weekend of the tournament will be referred to as the first- and second-rounds, rather than the second and third. The four games that start the tournament will still be known as the First Four, or opening round.

For the second consecutive year, a record-breaking number of credentials were issued for the Final Four. A total of 2,069 media credentials, including those for television partners from Turner and CBS, were issued in Indianapolis.

Duke Coach Mike Krzyzewski broke a tie with Adolph Rupp to move into second place with five national championships. John Wooden won 10 with UCLA to remain the all-time leader. Coach Krzyzewski advanced to the Final Four for the 12th time, tying Coach Wooden for the most all-time, and appeared in his 31st NCAA tournament, tying Jim Boeheim for the most all-time.

Duke guard Tyus Jones became just the fifth freshman to win Most Outstanding Player at the Final Four, joining Arnie Ferrin of Utah in 1944, Pervis Ellison of Louisville in 1986, Carmelo Anthony of Syracuse (2003) and Anthony Davis of Kentucky (2012).

For the second straight year, a team entered the tournament undefeated. Kentucky's record was unblemished through 34 regular-season and Southeastern Conference tournament games, and the Wildcats' wins in their first four NCAA tournament games allowed them to become the first team since the 1991 UNLV squad to enter the Final Four without a loss.

Wisconsin and Kentucky met in the national semifinals for the second straight year, marking the first time since 1991 that a Final Four game was a rematch from the previous year's Final Four. Duke and UNLV met in the championship game in 1990 and in the semifinals the following year.

Wisconsin All-American Frank Kaminsky recorded a double-double in both Final Four games, becoming the first player to do that since Carmelo Anthony in 2003.

Michigan State and Louisville needed overtime to decide their East Regional championship game. It was the 200th March Madness game to go to overtime.

Thursday, March 19 was a memorable day as for the first time in tournament history, five March Madness games were decided by one point: UAB 60, Iowa St. 59; Georgia St. 57, Baylor 56; UCLA 60, SMU 59; Cincinnati 66, Purdue 65; and North Carolina St. 66, LSU 65.

March Madness Live had another record-setting year, with more than 80 million live stream starts resulting in more than 17 million hours of tournament games watched on the app. On the social media front, there were more than 11 million social engagements resulting in better than 352 million impressions.

2016 The NCAA, Turner and CBS reached an $8.8 billion deal that will keep the men's basketball championship on the two networks through the 2032 tournament.

The national championship game featured a buzzer-beater for the first time since 1983, as Villanova's Kris Jenkins drilled a three-pointer just before the clock hit zero to lift the Wildcats to a 77-74 victory over North Carolina. It marked Villanova's second national championship and first since 1985.

Villanova set a Final Four record for shooting, making 63 of 97 shots (64.9 percent) in its wins over Oklahoma and North Carolina at NRG Stadium. The Wildcats' 71.4 percent performance in a record-setting 44-point win over the Sooners in Saturday's first semifinal was the second-highest shooting percentage in Final Four history, trailing only Villanova's 78.6 clip in the 1985 title game versus Georgetown.

North Carolina advanced to the Final Four for the 19th time in school history, the most by any Division I school.

Syracuse became the fourth double-digit seed since seeding began in 1979 to reach the Final Four. 11th-seeded LSU was the first to do it, in 1986, and George Mason (2006) and VCU (2011) matched the feat, also as No. 11 seeds.

Syracuse became the 12th institution to send both its men's and women's teams to the Final Four, joining Georgia in 1983, Duke in 1999, Oklahoma in 2002, Texas in 2003, Michigan St. in 2005, LSU in 2006, Louisville in 2013 and UConn in 2004, 2009, 2011 and 2014.

Lon Kruger guided Oklahoma to the Final Four, 22 years after leading Florida to the 1994 Final Four. It is the second-longest gap between Final Four appearances for a coach, trailing only Ray Meyer, who led DePaul to the 1943 and 1979 Final Fours.

UNI experienced an extreme high in its first-round win over Texas, as Paul Jespersion nailed a half-court shot at the buzzer to lift the Panthers to a 75-72 win. Two days later against Texas A&M, UNI had a 12-point lead with 35 seconds remaining, but the Aggies rallied to force overtime. A&M eventually won in double overtime, 92-88, marking the largest comeback in the final minute in the history of men's college basketball.

The Atlantic Coast Conference set a record by sending six teams to the Sweet 16 (North Carolina, Syracuse, Virginia, Notre Dame, Duke and Miami).

A record 10 double-digit seeds (two 10s, three 11s, two 12s, a 13, a 14 and a 15) won first-round games, breaking the record of nine set in 2001 and 2012. Hawaii, Stephen F. Austin and Middle Tennessee all won on March 18, marking the first day featuring wins by teams seeded 13th, 14th and 15th.

More than ever before, fans tuned in using the NCAA March Madness Live app. Across online platforms, tablets and smart phones, NCAA March Madness Live netted 3.4 million live video streams for the national title game, which resulted in 1.1 million live hours of video consumption, a 16 percent increase over last year and an all-time record for an individual game during the NCAA tournament. With 18.1 million live hours, the tournament also generated more video consumption than any other tournament.

Turner Sports' exclusive presentation of the national championship across TBS, TNT and truTV averaged 17.8 million viewers and a 13.2 household coverage rating/10.6 U.S. household rating. Viewership peaked at an average 22.3 million viewers in the final minutes of the game. The Villanova University-University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, game became the second-most-viewed college basketball game of all time on a cable television network, following only the University of Wisconsin-Madison's defeat of the University of Kentucky in the 2015 semifinals, which ended Kentucky's perfect season. The championship game was also the most viewed event of any kind on Sling TV. Beyond the national reach, ESPN International broadcast the games to 188 countries and territories, marking an increase of eight countries from the previous year.

The national championship game generated 56 million impressions across March Madness social media accounts, up 112 percent over last year. Video consumption for social media was also up with 8 million views overall, more than five times the volume of video for last year's championship game.

The two-session Final Four attendance totaled 149,845, the second-highest attendance in Men's Final Four history. The championship game attendance of 74,340 is also the second-highest in championship game history. The semifinals round marked an NRG Stadium attendance record with 75,505 fans.

2017 With the Final Four in the western part of the country for the first time since 1995, two Pacific time zone teams (Gonzaga and Oregon) advanced to Phoenix, marking the first time ever two teams from the west coast made it to the Final Four. It was only the sixth time ever that the Final Four featured more than one team from the Pacific or Mountain time zones.

The three Final Four games were decided by a total of 11 points, which tied for the second smallest combined margin ever, behind the 10 in 1950 and 1982.

Consistent with the increased scoring trends seen during the regular season, all four Final Four teams scored at least 70 points in the national semifinals. It was the first time that had happened in 25 years.

The Southeastern Conference sent three teams (South Carolina, Kentucky and Florida) to the Elite 8, marking the first time the league accomplished that since 1986.

Xavier became just the second No. 11 seed ever to beat teams seeded sixth, third and second in its region to advance to the Elite 8. The 1986 LSU team was the other.

A total of 176 countries carried the Final Four, including 3.22 million viewers in China. Westwood One also carried the first-ever Spanish radio broadcast in Final Four history. Turner Sports and CBS Sports' exclusive coverage of the 2017 NCAA Division I Men's Basketball Championship delivered huge audiences across all platforms – television, digital and social. The 2017 NCAA Tournament on TBS, CBS, TNT and truTV was the second most-watched in 23 years (1994), averaging 10.827 million viewers, which is also up +16% from 2016 (9.373 million viewers). The National Championship was watched by an average of 22.998 million viewers, up +30% from last year. The game peaked with 26.105 million viewers from 11:15-11:30 p.m. ET.

Additionally, NCAA March Madness Live netted a record-setting 98 million live video streams during the NCAA Tournament, up +33% over last year. The national championship game garnered 4.4 million live video streams, an all-time record for the title game. Official March Madness social media handles garnered over 74 million engagements throughout the NCAA Tournament, a 42% increase over last year.

In venue, the second-largest crowds in Final Four history attended the semifinals (77,612) and championship game (76,168). In addition, a record 2,201 media credentials were issued.

2018 UMBC became the first No. 16 in tournament history to knock off a No. 1 seed, as the Retrievers stunned the overall top-seeded Virginia Cavaliers in convincing fashion, 74-54. The game was tied at the half but the Retrievers outscored UVA 14-3 in the first 3:36 of the second half, and the lead remained in double figures the rest of the way.

Eleventh-seeded Loyola Chicago became the fifth double-digit seed since seeding began in 1979 to reach the Final Four, joining LSU (11 seed in 1986), George Mason (11 seed in 2006), VCU (11 seed in 2011) and Syracuse (10 seed in 2016) to do it. All five of those teams lost in the national semifinals.

Marshall and Buffalo knocked off fourth-seeded Wichita St. and Arizona, respectively, becoming the fourth pair of No. 13 seeds to win first-round games in the same tournament. It also happened in 1987, 2001 and 2008.

For the eighth time in as many years, a First Four winner advanced to at least the second round, as Syracuse, which beat Arizona St. in Dayton, knocked off TCU and Michigan St. to reach the Sweet 16.

For the 11th consecutive year, and for the 16th time in the previous 17 tournaments, the defending national champion failed to get past the Sweet 16. North Carolina's second-round loss to Texas A&M meant the reigning champion had lost five times in the opening weekend in that 17-year span, while seven others had lost in the Sweet 16 and four champions failed to make the tournament the next year. The one exception in that period is Florida, which followed up its 2006 championship with another title in 2007.

Nevada rallied from 22 points down in the second half to stun second-seeded Cincinnati 75-73 and advance to the Sweet 16. The Wolf Pack, which trailed 65-43 with 11 minutes left, matched Duke's rally to beat Maryland in the 2001 Final Four for the second-biggest comeback in tournament history. BYU's win over Iona, in which the Cougars trailed by 25 in the 2012 First Four, is still the record for largest deficit overcome to win a tournament game, but the Wolf Pack began their rally with considerably less time remaining in the game. Nevada advanced to the second round with a 14-point comeback to beat Texas in overtime, then nearly rallied in the Sweet 16 when the Wolf Pack trailed by 10 with less than eight minutes left, only to lose to Loyola Chicago, 69-68.

For the first time in tournament history, all of the top four teams in a region failed to reach the Sweet 16. The South Regional in Atlanta featured fifth-seeded Kentucky, No. 7 Nevada, No. 9 Kansas St. and 11th-seeded Loyola Chicago, which ended up advancing to the Final Four.

For only the second time in tournament history, a regional featured three teams from one conference. Second-seeded Duke, fifth-seeded Clemson and 11th-seeded Syracuse all advanced to the Midwest Regional in Omaha. The only other time this had happened was in 1986, when Kentucky, Alabama and LSU all advanced in the regional that took place in Atlanta.

The 2018 tournament marked only the fourth tournament that two No. 1 seeds failed to reach the Sweet 16, as Xavier and Virginia were knocked out in the first weekend. The other times were 1981, 2000 and 2004.

For the first time since new bracketing principles were adopted in the summer of 2013, teams had to be moved off their true seed line. This occurred because two Big East teams (Villanova and Xavier) were No. 1 seeds, and four others fell between places 29 and 35 on the overall seed list, meaning Seton Hall, Creighton, Butler and Providence were slated to be No. 8 and 9 lines. To avoid teams from the same league playing in the second round, Butler and Providence dropped from a 9 seed to a 10, while North Carolina St. and Florida St. moved up from the 10 line and were seeded ninth.

Yet another record was set for most credentials (2,206) issued at the Final Four.

2019 Virginia, which in 2018 became the first No. 1 seed to lose to a No. 16 team in the first round, bounced back from that disappointment to capture the school's first national championship. The top-seeded Cavaliers needed to rally from a 14-point first-half deficit against Gardner-Webb to get out of the first round, and then eased past Oklahoma to reach the regional semifinals. UVA outlasted Oregon in the Sweet 16 and then in the regional final, got a buzzer-beater by Mamadi Diakite to force overtime. The Cavs overcame a 42-point performance by Purdue's Carsen Edwards to win 80-75 and advance to their first Final Four since 1984. The thrilling finishes didn't stop there. In the national semifinals, Kyle Guy nailed three free throws with .6 seconds remaining to give Virginia a 63-62 win over Auburn. In the championship game, overtime was needed to decide a high-level tilt between the Cavaliers and Texas Tech, which had rallied from a 10-point deficit to grab a three-point lead in the final seconds. However, De'Andre Hunter's three-pointer with 12 seconds left sent the game into overtime and another three-pointer midway through the extra session put Virginia ahead to stay in what would be an 85-77 victory.

Virginia coach Tony Bennett reached his first Final Four and with his father, Dick, having guided Wisconsin to the 2000 Final Four, they became the second father-son combination to both lead teams that far in the tournament. The first to do it was John Thompson and John Thompson III, who both led Georgetown to the Final Four.

For the first time since 1980, a new metric was used by the committee to sort and assist with the evaluation of teams throughout the season. The NCAA Evaluation Tool (NET) was introduced to the membership and public in the summer 2018, with the first rankings coming out November 26. Using the Selection Sunday rankings, 15 of the top 18 teams in the NET rankings reached the Sweet 16, with 12th-seeded Oregon being the lone exception.

Raining 3s: There were 1,083 three-pointers made in the tournament, shattering the previous record by more than 100 (974 in 2018). Virginia and Texas Tech combined for 21 made three-pointers, tied for the most in championship game history. It marked the first time both teams reached double digits in three-pointers made in a title game. Purdue's Carsen Edwards made 27 three-pointers in four tournament games, tying the single-tourney record set by Michigan's Glen Rice, who did it in six games in 1989. Baylor and Syracuse busted each other's zone for a combined 28 made three-pointers, the most for any non-overtime game in tournament history. Fairleigh Dickinson's Darnell Edge set an opening round/First Four record for three-point percentage by knocking down seven of nine shots from long range, while in the same game Prairie View tied an opening round/First Four record with 15 made three-pointers.

Working Overtime: Tennessee became the first school to play back-to-back overtime games since Florida in 2011. The Volunteers needed OT to beat Iowa in the second round and then fell to Purdue in overtime in the Sweet 16. The national championship game was the first to go to overtime since 2008 and the eighth title game to require overtime to determine a winner. The 2019 tournament had five games go to overtime; the previous three tournaments had a combined six OT games.

Purdue's Carsen Edwards became the first player to earn regional Most Outstanding Player honors from a non-winning team since Davidson's Steph Curry did it in 2008.

Murray State phenom Ja Morant notched the ninth triple-double in tournament history, leading the Racers to a 83-64 win over Marquette. Morant had 17 points and 11 rebounds, and his 16 assists were the second-most in tournament history.

A year after a record-tying low of only seven of the top 16 seeds reaching the Sweet 16, a record-tying high of 14 of the top 16 seeds advance to the regional semifinals. The only exceptions were fifth-seeded Auburn and 12-seeded Oregon. The 2009 tournament was the only other one that had 14 of the 16 teams seeded on the top four lines reach the Sweet 16, and the 2009 and 2019 tournaments are the only ones in which all 1, 2 and 3 seeds advanced to the regional semifinals.

For the second time in three years, the Final Four featured two teams making their inaugural appearance in the event. South Carolina and Gonzaga did it in 2017, while Texas Tech and Auburn accomplished it in 2019.

With Villanova bowing out in the second round, the defending national champion failed to get past the Sweet 16 for the 12th consecutive year and for the 17th time in 18 years. Villanova's 26-point loss to Purdue was the second-largest loss by a defending champion, trailing only the 1990 Michigan team that lost by 34 a year after winning the 1989 title.

The Big Ten Conference sent seven teams to the round of 32, becoming only the second league to achieve that (Big East in 2008 and 2011).

A total of 36,599 fans attended Final Four Friday, while 16,721 attended the March Madness Music Series, 76,560 attended Fan Fest and 200,000 went to the Tip-Off Tailgate. Nearly 15,000 Minneapolis-area students read 6.6 million minutes in the Read to the Final Four program, while 3,100 kids participated in the Final Four dribble. Minneapolis had more than 2,200 volunteers assisting at various ancillary events throughout the city.

Attendance for the semifinal games was 72,711, while 72,062 watched the national championship game. There were 120 million impressions from social content during Final Four week and 135 million social media video views throughout the tournament (up 74 percent from 2018). Live streams from March Madness Live set an all-time record with 100+ million streams (up 31 percent), and there was a 10 percent increase in television household viewership.

For the third year in a row, and sixth time in eight years, a record number of media were credentialed at the Final Four (2,442).

On April 24, the NCAA announced that the Divisions II and III national championship games would be played in Atlanta during Final Four weekend. The games will take place on Sunday, April 5, the day between the Division I national semifinals and championship game. It is the second time the three divisions would conduct their title games in the same city on the same weekend; Atlanta hosted all three contests in 2013 as part of the 75th March Madness celebration.

2020 On Thursday, March 12, the NCAA Board of Governors voted to cancel all winter and spring championships due to the global COVID-19 pandemic. It marked the first time since its inception in 1939 that the Division I men's basketball championship was canceled.

2021 The entire tournament was played in a single state for the first time ever, due to the ongoing COVID-19 global pandemic that forced the cancellation of the 2020 tournament. First Four games were played at Indiana University and Purdue University, which also hosted first-round games along with Bankers Life Fieldhouse (home of the Indiana Pacers), Hinkle Fieldhouse on the campus of Butler University, Indiana Farmers Coliseum (located at the State Fairgrounds and home to IUPUI basketball) and Lucas Oil Stadium. The four venues in Indianapolis hosted second-round games, while Hinkle Fieldhouse and Bankers Life Fieldhouse were the sites for the Sweet 16 games. Lucas Oil Stadium hosted the Elite Eight and Final Four games. Two courts were used at Lucas Oil Stadium and were called the Equality and Unity courts, emphasizing awareness around inclusion and social justice issues.

Teams were housed in downtown Indianapolis during their entire stay in the tournament and were contained within a controlled environment, along with NCAA staff, committee members, officials and tournament operations staff. Daily COVID testing was conducted to ensure the health and safety of participants and organizers. One team, VCU, was unable to play its first-round game scheduled against Oregon, due to positive tests, leading Oregon to advance to the second round via the no-contest rule.

Baylor won its first national championship in school history, rolling to an 86-70 win over previously unbeaten Gonzaga. The game marked the first national title tilt to feature the overall No. 1 and No. 2 teams on the committee's overall seed list since 2005 (North Carolina-Illinois). The Bears led by as many as 19 in the first half and held the Bulldogs to a season-low for points scored and kept them well below their season average of 91 points per game. Baylor outrebounded Gonzaga 38-22, including 16-5 on the offensive glass. Mark Vital had 11 rebounds, including eight on the offensive end. Most Outstanding Player Jared Butler had 22 points and seven assists, MaCio Teague had 19 points, Davion Mitchell had 15 points, six rebounds and five assists, and Adam Flagler contributed 13 points off the bench.

Jalen Suggs hit a 37-footer at the buzzer to give Gonzaga a 93-90 overtime win over UCLA in a national semifinal game that will surely rank as one of the most memorable games in tournament history. The game featured 15 ties and 19 lead changes and marked the second time in Final Four history (excluding third-place games) that both teams topped the 90-point mark (Indiana 97, UNLV 93 in 1987 was the other). The Bruins shot 57.6 percent from the floor, while the Bulldogs shot 58.7 percent. Gonzaga improved to 31-0 with the win, becoming the first team since the 1979 Indiana St. team to enter the national championship game with an unblemished record.

The national semifinal between Baylor and Houston was the 3,500th game in tournament history and was the 200th March Madness game to be played in the state of Indiana.

Of the 3,502 tournament games that have been played, nearly 23 percent of them have been decided in overtime or by 1, 2 or 3 points.

There was all sorts of history made with lower-seeded teams. The NCAA defines an upset as a team seeded five or more spots lower than an opponent winning a tournament game. The 2021 tournament featured 14 such upsets, an all-time record. Nine double-digit seeds advanced to the round of 32, tying for second most all-time (2001, 2012). The record is 10 in 2016. Four teams seeded 13 or lower (13th-seeded North Texas, 13th-seeded Ohio, 14th-seeded Abilene Christian and 15th-seeded Oral Roberts) advancing to the round of 32 is the most ever. Oral Roberts went on to become the second 15 seed to advance to the Sweet 16, joining Florida Gulf Coast (2013). UCLA became the second team to go from the First Four to the Final Four, joining VCU (2011). Oregon St. became the second No. 12 seed to reach the Elite Eight. The Beavers' run ended with a loss to Houston, coached by Kelvin Sampson. Sampson was also the coach of the Oklahoma team that knocked off the only other No. 12 seed to reach the regional final (Missouri in 2002). Oregon St. and UCLA were just the third pair of double-digit seeds to reach the Elite Eight in the same tournament (Texas and Loyola Marymount in 1990 and Kent St. and Missouri in 2002). Houston became the first team ever to reach the Final Four by beating four double-digit seeds (15 Cleveland St., 10 Rutgers, 11 Syracuse and 12 Oregon St.).

For the first time in tournament history, the two HBCU conference representatives won games in the same tournament. Both Texas Southern (SWAC) and Norfolk St. (MEAC) won games in the First Four.

The 2021 tournament featured six overtime games, tying for the second-most in tournament history. Only the 1995, 1997 and 2014 tournaments, with seven overtime games, had more. UCLA was involved with three of the overtime games, beating Michigan St. in the First Four and Alabama in the Sweet 16 in games needing an extra five minutes to decide. The Bruins lost to Gonzaga in the Final Four, which was the first semifinal since 1998 to go to overtime. UCLA joins the 1975 Syracuse team as the only team to play three overtime games in a single tournament.

2022 For the second straight year, and for the fifth time ever, there were six overtime games in the tournament. The other years were 1975, 2006 and 2008. The record is seven (1995, 1997, 2014).

For the second year in a row, and for just the third time in history, a No. 15 team advanced to the Sweet 16. However, Saint Peter's made history by taking it another step, advancing to the Elite 8. Florida Gulf Coast (2013) and Oral Roberts (2021) were the other 15 seeds to get to the round of 16.

North Carolina became the seventh No. 8 seed to advance to the Final Four, joining UCLA in 1980, Villanova in 1985, North Carolina and Wisconsin in 2000, Butler in 2011 and Kentucky in 2014.

A year after setting a record for most upsets in a single tournament (14, defined as a winning team seeded five or more spots lower than an opponent), there were 13 such games in 2022, highlighted by 15th-seeded Saint Peter's knocking off second-seeded Kentucky, seventh-seeded Murray St. and third-seeded Purdue. No. 11 seeds Iowa St. (vs. LSU and Wisconsin) and Michigan (vs. Colorado St. and Tennessee) also had a pair of upsets, as did eighth-seeded North Carolina, which beat No. 1 seed Baylor in the second-round and then knocked off second-seeded Duke in the Final Four. In the win against Baylor, UNC survived what would have tied for the greatest comeback in tournament history as Baylor staged a remarkable rally by overcoming a 25-point deficit with 10:08 left to send the game into overtime. However, the Tar Heels recovered to knock off the defending champs and keep BYU's record 25-point comeback from the 2012 First Four against Iona safe. In the win over Duke, North Carolina edged its archival in a game for the ages that ended the career of legendary Blue Devils coach Mike Krzyzewski.

Notre Dame's first-round win over Alabama marked the 10th time in 11 tournaments since 2011 that a First Four participant advanced to at least the round of 32.

The First Four games attracted 25,038 fans at University of Dayton Arena, marking the second-highest total ever (25,068 in 2018).

Amy Bonner was one of the officials calling the UCLA-Akron first-round game, making her just the second female to officiate a tournament game. The first was Melanie Davis, who worked the Illinois-San Diego St. first-round game in 2002.

The 2022 tournament marked the 16th time since 1985 (37 tournaments) that multiple No. 12 seeds knocked off their fifth-seeded opponents in the first round.

No. 11 seeds went 3-1 against their sixth-seeded counterparts, marking the third time in the past six tournaments that the 11th-seeded teams won three of four against the No. 6 opponents.

Arkansas made history when it knocked off No. 1 overall seed (and the top-ranked team in the Associated Press poll Gonzaga) in the Sweet 16. The Razorbacks became the first team ever to beat the AP's No. 1 team in the regular season (Auburn) and in the NCAA tournament.

The 8 versus 15 Elite 8 game between North Carolina and Saint Peter's marked the highest combined seed total (23) in tournament history, breaking the mark of 20 that was established when No. 11 Loyola Chicago beat No. 9 Kansas St. in 2018. Saint Peter's is the lowest-seeded team to ever reach the Elite 8, breaking the record set by Missouri in 2002 and Oregon St. in 2021. Both of those teams were No. 12 seeds.

The seed total of the teams that advanced to the Elite 8 was 47 (1, 2, 2, 4, 5, 8, 10, 15). That's the highest total in tournament history. The previous high was 40 in 1990 and in 2000. The lowest total is 13 in 2007 (1, 1, 1, 1, 2, 2, 2, 3).

North Carolina's Hubert Davis became just the 10th coach to lead his team to the Final Four in his first year as a head coach.

UNC's Armando Bacot made history by becoming the first player ever to record six double-doubles in a single NCAA tournament. His 21 rebounds in the semifinal win over Duke made him the 13th player to ever achieve that total in a Final Four game.

Kansas won its fourth national championship in historic fashion, rallying from a 16-point deficit to beat North Carolina for the title. The Jayhawks trailed by 15 at the half. Both marked the largest comebacks in championship game history.

The North Carolina-Duke game was the second-most watched college basketball game in cable television history, behind only the 2015 semifinal game between Wisconsin and Kentucky. The Kansas-North Carolina game ranks third on that list. All of those games aired on TBS. Overall, the tournament generated its best audience share since 1994, and total viewership was up 13 percent from 2021. March Madness Live set single-game records for the championship game and delivered record-setting streaming performances for the tournament.

2023 For the second time ever, a 16 seed defeated a 1, as Fairleigh Dickinson stunned Purdue 63-58. FDU became the first 16 seed to win a round of 64 game after advancing from the First Four.

Pittsburgh's win over Iowa St. made it 11 out of 12 years in which a First Four at-large team advanced to at least the round of 32.

The 2023 tournament marked the fifth time in six years that the No. 3 seeds went 4-0 in the first round. No other seed has performed better during that time. The 3 seeds are 23-1 in the first round of the past six tournaments.

For the third straight year, a No. 2 seed lost to a 15 seed in the first round. Prior to 2021, a 15 beat a 2 seed only eight times.

For the third time since 2015, the 5 seeds went 4-0 in the first round against the No. 12 seeds. It happened just three times from 1985-2014.

Thursday's first-round games were the most-watched opening day of the tournament in eight years, and the early afternoon session was the most-watched window ever. The second day of the first round was the most-watched ever in the history of the tournament.

The First Four game between Arizona State and Nevada featured head coaches who won a national title as a player: Bobby Hurley with Duke and Steve Alford with Indiana. The other six times were in 1967: North Carolina (Dean Smith) vs. Boston College (Bob Cousy); 1976: Alabama (C.M. Newton) vs. North Carolina (Dean Smith); 1976: Indiana (Bob Knight) vs. Alabama (C.M. Newton); 1981: Indiana (Bob Knight) vs. North Carolina (Dean Smith); 1984: Indiana (Bob Knight) vs. North Carolina (Dean Smith); and 2014: UCLA (Steve Alford) vs. Tulsa (Danny Manning).

A total of 11 difference conferences sent teams to the Sweet 16, tying an all-time record.

The 2023 Final Four was just the fourth ever to not have at least one No. 1 seed (1980, 2006, 2011), and the 2023 tournament was the first ever to not have a No. 1 seed in the Elite Eight. In addition, it was the first Final Four to not feature a 1, 2 or 3 seed, and the first one since 1970 to feature three first-time Final Four participants (Florida Atlantic, Miami and San Diego St.).

This was just the second Sweet 16 since the field expanded to 64 in 1985 (but second time in the past three tournaments) that did not feature at least one of Duke, Kansas, Kentucky or North Carolina. Since the field expanded to 16 teams in 1951, only the '54, '65, '76 and '79 tournaments featured regional semifinals without at least one of those four blue bloods.

San Diego St. became just the third team ever to win back-to-back tournament games by a single point, knocking off Creighton in the Elite Eight 57-56, before advancing to the national title game with a 72-71 win over Florida Atlantic. Loyola Chicago in 2018 and St. Joseph's in 1981 are the only other two schools to do it. SDSU's Lamont Butler hit a 17-footer at the buzzer to give the Aztecs the win over FAU. It marked the first Final Four game ever in which a team trailing hit a shot with no time left to win a game; all other Final Four buzzer beaters had come with the game tied. It also capped a comeback from 14 points down, which is the fifth-largest deficit overcome to win a Final Four game.

UConn won its fifth national championship, joining UCLA (11), Kentucky (8), North Carolina (6), Duke (5) and Indiana (5) as the only schools to do so.

UConn won each of its six tournament games by double digits, becoming only the fifth team since the field expanded in 1985 to do so (Michigan St. in 2000, Duke in 2001, North Carolina in 2009 and Villanova in 2018).

Mark Grant became the first Black person ever to direct the Final Four for CBS. He replaced Bob Fishman, who had directed the event since 1982.

2024 A year after the Final Four saw three first-time national semifinal participants, another team advanced for the first time ever as Alabama beat Clemson in an Elite Eight battle of teams that had never been to a Final Four. The Crimson Tide were joined by Purdue, who hadn't been since 1980, and NC State, who hadn't played in a Final Four since winning the national championship in 1983. However, it was defending champion UConn that cut down the nets, securing the Huskies' sixth title since 1999.

UConn joined a short list of programs with at least six national titles that includes UCLA (11), Kentucky (8) and North Carolina (6). The Huskies improved to 12-1 in Final Four games, giving them the best winning percentage in the history of the event, and they became just the third team (Duke in 1992 and Florida in 2007) to repeat as national champions in the modern era. UConn was the 15th team to win the national title with each victory coming by double digits, and only Michigan St. (2000), Duke (2001), North Carolina (2009), Villanova (2018) and UConn (2023 and 2024) did it while winning six tournament games to capture the championship. The Huskies' total margin of victory (140) is the highest in tournament history.

UConn and NC State saw its men's and women's teams advance to the Final Four, marking the first time ever that has happened. NC State became the 11th school to accomplish the feat, while UConn did it for the fifth time and is the only school to do it more than once.

Purdue's Zach Edey set a record for most points scored in a championship game by the losing team, finishing with 37. The previous record was 35 by John Morton of Seton Hall in 1989. Edey became just the second player to record six double-doubles in a single tournament, joining Armando Bacot of North Carolina (2022). His 30-point, 21-rebound effort in the Boilermakers' first-round win over Grambling was the 19th 30-20 game in tournament history and the first since Maryland's Joe Smith had 31 and 26 against Texas in 1995. It was also the 71st time a player had at least 20 points and 20 rebounds in a tournament game, though a day later N'Faly Dante of Oregon became the 72nd with a 28-point, 20-rebound outing in a double overtime loss to Creighton in the second round.

Marcus Domask recorded the 10th official triple double in tournament history with 12 points, 11 rebounds and 10 assists in Illinois' first-round win over Morehead St.

Wagner's Melvin Council, Jr. became the only player in the history of the tournament with at least 20 points, five rebounds, five assists, make at least half his shots, never leave the game and not commit a single foul.

The national championship game drew 74,423 fans, the third most in championship game history. The two-day total in Phoenix drew 149,143 fans, the fifth-highest total ever at the Final Four.

There have been 62 tournaments since 1962 and the UConn-Purdue title game was the 62nd different matchup during that span. On the contrary, there have been repeat matchups in the past 15 years in college football, women's college basketball, the NFL, NBA, WNBA, MLB and NHL.

TNT Sports and CBS averaged nearly 10 million viewers for each broadcast window during the tournament, which is a three percent increase. The national semifinals drew nearly 13 million viewers, which was a slight increase from 2023 despite the games being on cable versus linear broadcast.

The first round of the 2024 tournament saw 11 lower-seeded teams win, highlighted by three 9 seeds beating an 8 seed and a trio of 11 seeds beating a 6 seed. The 11 wins by lower-seeded teams is the third-most in the past 22 tournaments (12 in 2019, 13 in 2016). Number 11 seeds have won multiple first-round games in five of the past six tournaments, including all four games in 2019 and three in 2018, 2022 and 2024.

There were five teams that scored at least 100 points in a tournament game, marking the first time that has happened since 1994. The previous 10 tournaments saw it happen a total of six times. Florida became the 21st team to score 100 or more points in a losing cause, falling to Colorado 102-100. That was the first time that has happened since Wake Forest lost to West Virginia 111-105 in double overtime in 2005. Florida became just the 14th team to score 100 in regulation but lose and the first to do it since Washington, which fell 102-100 to UAB in 2004.

The five overtime games marked the fourth time in the past five tournaments that there were at least five outcomes not determined after 40 minutes. Two of the OT games were decided by 12 or more points, marking just the eighth and ninth times that has happened in 234 tournament games needing overtime. No tournament games were decided by a single point, which was the first time that happened since 1994.

2025 The Southeastern Conference set records with 14 teams in the tournament field, having 87.5 percent of its membership (14 of 16 schools) in the field, tournament wins (23), teams in the Sweet 16 (seven), and tied the record for teams in the Elite 8 (four).

For only the second time since seeding began in 1979, the four Number 1 seeds (Florida, Houston, Auburn, Duke) all advanced to the Final Four. The previous time was 2008 (Kansas, Memphis, North Carolina, UCLA).

The previous record for fewest conferences represented in the Sweet 16 was 7 (1987, 1989, 2012, 2016, 2017, 2019), but only four conferences were represented in this year's Sweet 16: SEC, Big Ten, Big 12, ACC. The record for the most leagues is 11 (1991, 2010, 2023).

Since the bracket expanded in 1985, this was the sixth time that the 1, 2, 3 and 4 seeds all went undefeated in the first round.

Florida's average margin of victory for its six tournament wins was 9.5, the fourth lowest for any national champion since 1997.

For only the second time since the First Four's inception in 2011, none of the teams advancing from Dayton advanced past at least the first round.

The national championship game averaged 18.1 million viewers on CBS, up 22 percent and the most watched since 2019. The Florida-Houston game peaked with 21.1 million viewers for the game's conclusion. The three Final Four games averaged 16.4 million viewers, up 21 percent and the best in eight years. Tournament viewership across TBS, CBS, TNT and truTV averaged 10.2 million viewers, up three percent.

Florida's 12-point comeback to beat Houston tied for the third biggest deficit overcome to win a national title game, behind Kansas (trailed North Carolina by 16 in 2022) and Loyola Chicago (trailed Cincinnati by 15 in 1963), and tied with Kentucky (trailed Utah by 12 in 1998). Houston rallied from 14 points down in the national semifinals to beat Duke, which was the fifth biggest comeback in a Final Four game, trailing the Kansas and Loyola Chicago wins, as well as Duke (down 22 to Maryland in the 2001 semifinals) and Seton Hall (down 18 to Duke in the 1989 semifinals).

The three Final Four games were decided by a total of 11 points, which was tied for the second lowest total (with 2017 and 1977) in the past 50 years. The 1982 Final Four games were decided by a total of 10 points.

Florida became the 10th different school with at least three national titles, joining UCLA (11), Kentucky (8), North Carolina and UConn (6), Duke and Indiana (5), Kansas (4), and Villanova and Louisville (3). *Louisville's 2013 championship was later vacated by the Committee on Infractions.

Todd Golden of Florida became the 53rd different head coach to win a national championship.

The 2024-25 season marked the 11th time in the previous 13 years that at least two of the preseason top 3 in the Associated Press poll failed to make the Elite 8.

Houston became the first school to advance to a Final Four that was played in the state of Texas.

All three of the Final Four games were won by the team trailing at halftime.

Auburn became the first team since Florida in 2014 to have played all three fellow Final Four teams during the regular season.

Before the 2025 tournament, only Bob Bender (Indiana in 1976 and Duke in 1978) and Steve Krafcsisin (North Carolina in 1977 and Iowa in 1980) were the only two players to play in two Final Fours for two separate schools. This year, Alijah Martin (Fla. Atlantic in 2023), LJ Cryer (Baylor in 2021), and Mason Gillis (Purdue in 2024) all accomplished the feat.

For the second time in his career, Purdue's Braden Smith recorded 15 assists in a regional game when he did it against Houston in the Sweet 16. Smith previously did it against Gonzaga in 2023. The only other player with more assists in a regional game was Markquis Nowell of Kansas St. who had 19 in an overtime win over Michigan St. in 2023.

Texas Tech and Arkansas needed an extra five minutes to determine an outcome, marking the 55th straight year that at least one tournament game went to overtime. The last one didn't have an overtime game was 1970.

Alabama set records for most three-point attempts in a tournament game (51) and most made three-pointers in a tournament game (25). Mark Sears led the way with 10 made three-pointers, which is the second most ever in a tournament game, trailing only Jeff Fryer's 11 for Loyola Marymount in 1990.

[^]National 3d-place games did not start until 1946 and ended in 1981; in other years, two teams tied for third and both are listed in this column. RR-Regional runner-up, or one victory from Final Four, thus in the top eight.

NOTES ON TEAMS AND COACHES

LSU: Kevin Nickelberry coached LSU as an interim head coach in 2022 due to Will Wade's release preceding the start of the tournament.

MICHIGAN: Steve Fisher coached Michigan in the 1989 tournament; Bill Freider was the coach during the regular season.

MISSOURI: Rich Daly coached Missouri in the 1989 tournament due to Norm Stewart's illness; Missouri credits the entire 1989 season to Stewart.

PRINCETON: Jake McCandless coached Princeton in the 1961 tournament; Franklin Cappon suffered a heart attack 11 games into the season; Princeton credits the 1961 regular season to Cappon and the postseason to McCandless.

SEATTLE U.: Clair Markey coached Seattle U. in the 1963 tournament due to Vince Cazetta's resignation.

VCU: Mike Rhoades was not credited with a loss in 2021 after a first-round exit due to the COVID-19 no-contest policy.
