This is the third of three annual publications recording the history of NCAA Championships. The fall book was released in July and the winter book was released in December.

Men's and women's summaries in all three publications are current through the spring 2002 championships. Updated summary information can be found after each championship season via the NCAA Online Web site at www.ncaa.org. To access those summaries, select "News & Publications," "NCAA Publications," "View Online," and "Records," then select the championships records book and summary of your choice.

Foreword

The 2002-03 academic year marks the 121st season of National Collegiate Championships sponsored by the nation's colleges and universities.

This historic series began in the spring of 1883 when Joseph Clark of Harvard captured the first singles title of the National Collegiate Tennis Championships. The NCAA, now with more than 900 member institutions eligible for competition, began to administer collegiate athletics championships in 1921, when the Association sponsored its first outdoor track and field championships. The National Collegiate Tennis Championships became a part of the NCAA series in 1938.

This book chronicles the results of spring men's and women's championships. Division I Men's Golf will stage its 65th championship this season, while Division II Men's Tennis celebrates its 40th and Division III Men's Outdoor Track and Field celebrates its 30th.

National Collegiate Championships competition has a rich tradition of excellence. Each of the championships serves as a stimulus for the development of the particular sport, and the series itself highlights the overall intercollegiate athletics programs of the nation's colleges and universities.
