

Swimming and Diving

DIVISION I WOMEN'S

Highlights

Georgia wins first NCAA championship since 2005 in record fashion—Georgia finished off its fifth national championship in women's swimming and diving in record fashion March 23, 2013.

The Lady Bulldogs already had clinched the Division I Women's Swimming and Diving Championships team title ahead of runner-up and two-time defending national champion California. Head coach Jack Bauerle was greeted with congratulatory hugs and handshakes every time he turned to walk on the pool deck.

Then came the rousing finish in the 400-yard freestyle relay for Allison Schmitt, Megan Romano, Shannon Vreeland and Chantal Van Landeghem. For U.S. Olympians and seniors Schmitt and Romano, it was their final collegiate race and they did not go quietly. The crowd was on its feet the entire time at the IU Natatorium.

Schmitt, swimming the third leg, and Romano, swimming anchor, not only overtook California's and Arizona's relay squads, but they ripped through the water in a national record time of 3:09.40. The NCAA, national championship and U.S. Open record of 3:09.88 had been set four years ago by California.

Romano jumped into the arms of Schmitt once she was back on the pool deck. Bauerle, who was named the National Coach of the Year, wound up with a bucket of sports drink over his head. Georgia fans, seated in a section just above the Bulldogs' athlete area, shouted their approval.

"I'm so excited to finally accomplish it," said Schmitt, a six-time Olympic medalist and six-time NCAA champion. "It's a dream come true."

Georgia finished runner-up to California the last two years. Schmitt took last year off to train for the Olympics, but returned this year to rejoin seniors Romano and Kelsey Gaid to nail down a national title. Georgia totaled 477 points, ahead of California's 393 and Tennessee's 325.50.

"To win this feels great," Bauerle said. "I'm happy for the seniors especially. This is really a special feeling it puts inside."

The Bulldogs were not the only ones celebrating on the final night of the championships. California freshman Elizabeth Pelton smashed the national and American records in the 200 backstroke and Southern California diver Haley Ishimatsu broke the championship platform diving record by more than 30 points. For both, the wins were their first at the national championship.

NCAA Swimmer of the Year Pelton had the crowd on its feet as she led the 200 backstroke from start to finish, and even picked up the pace in the last few laps as she won in a record 1:47.84. She had already broken an American record in the event March 2 with a time of 1:48.39.

After touching the wall, she looked up and saluted the crowd with a wave. Florida junior Elizabeth Beisel, who finished third, greeted Pelton with a hug on the pool deck.
