2017 CHAMPIONSHIP

HIGHLIGHTS

Emory men and women sweep championships: Emory University became just the second institution in Division III history, and the first since 2009, to sweep both the men's and women's swimming and diving championships as the Eagles led from start to finish to take home both team titles Saturday at the Conroe ISD. Kenyon College swept both team championships 23 different times.

The Emory women dominated the competition, winning four individual events and sweeping all five team relays en route to the program's eighth consecutive national championship. Four of the relays established new NCAA records, and the relay sweep marked the first time a single program has swept all five relays in consecutive years for the first time since Kenyon pulled off the feat in 2003 and 2004.

Emory finished with 645.5 points, a full 200 points more than second-place Williams who finished with 445 points. Kenyon was third with 381 points and Denison placed fourth with 272 points.

Emory sophomore Julia Durmer set the tone for the evening as she won the first final – the 1650 free – in a time of 16:27.82. Durmer is the fourth Emory swimmer to win the event and the first since Liz Horvat in 2009. Marysol Arce of Kenyon, the defending champion in the event, was second in 16:39.11 and Meg Stanley of Illinois Wesleyan was third in 16:41.93.

Fiona Muir continued the momentum for the Emory women as she earned the program's second consecutive win of the night with a first-place swim in the 100 free. The sophomore touched in 49.28 while earning her first individual national title after four career second-place finishes – including in the 100 free last year. Emma Waddell of Williams was second in a time of 49.45, and Abby VanHarn of Calvin and Lindsay Hagmann of Trinity tied for third in 50.38.

Emory put a bow on its national title with a victory in the 400 free relay. The team of Fiona Muir, Marcela Sanchez-Aizcorbe, Caroline Olson and Marissa Bergh set a new NCAA record with a 3:19.56 finish. It was the sixth time in program history the Eagles have won the meet-ending event – with all six wins coming since 2010 (2010-13; 2016-17). Williams finished second in a time of 3:23.11 and Kenyon was third in 3:23.37.

In other events from Saturday, Olivia Jackson of Williams established a new NCAA record in the 200 back with a winning time of 1:55.83 – breaking a mark that had stood since 2008. It was her second national title in the event after winning in 2015 and the fifth individual national title for the Ephs in this year's meet. Emma Paulson of St. Thomas finished second in a time of 1:58.61 and Cindy Cheng of Emory was third in 1:58.62.

First-year Mary Erb of Connecticut College earned the program's second-ever individual national title with a winning swim of 2:14.61 in the 200 breast. The Camels' Kate Kovenock won the 50 free in 2004. Williams' Caroline White finished second in a time of 2:15.08 and Julia Wilson of Kenyon was third in 2:15.30.

In ceremonies that took place following the meet, Emma Waddell of Williams College, who posted victories in the 50 free and 100 fly, was named Female Swimmer-of-the-Year, while Maura Sticco-Ivins of Wellesley College, who swept both boards, was selected Female Diver-of-the-Year. Her coach, Jack Lewis, was named CSCAA Women's Diving Coach-of-the-Year while Emory's Jon Howell was selected CSCAA Women's Swimming Coach-of-the-Year.
