2017 CHAMPIONSHIP

HIGHLIGHTS

The road to national title No. 10 was longer, more winding and at times seemed even less likely than some of Williams women's tennis' more recent championships, but the thrilling journey came to an appropriately climactic conclusion Wednesday, when the Ephs defeated Emory 5-4 in the DIII national championship dual.

Wednesday's matchup marked the third straight season the two teams have met with the title on the line. Both of the Ephs' two most recent encounters with the Eagles in the national championship resulted in 5-4 decisions, first for the Ephs two years ago in the 2015 title tilt and then for the Eagles in the 2016 finale.

It was only fitting then that the 2017 NCAA championship would be decided by the same margin, with a three-set match between two of the best Division III singles players in the country to determine who would win the National Title.

After a rocky start for the Ephs' Juli Raventos, faltering 6-1 in the opening set against the Eagles' Bridget Harding, the junior came back firing in the second. Raventos established an early lead, and with the second set on her racket at 5-3, the Northeast's second-ranked singles player made no mistake closing out the set to force a decider.

With the tide of momentum shifting in the Ephs' favor, Raventos picked up in the third set, right where she had left off at the end of the second, again orchestrating an early lead to put all the pressure on the Atlantic South's top-ranked singles player. Down 3-1, Harding held her serve to pull within one game of Raventos, only to see her purple and gold counterpart do the same to reconsolidate her two-game advantage a few minutes later.

With the pressure firmly back on the shoulders of the Emory junior, Raventos crafted a break point in the next game, and converted it with an explosive, cross-court forehand winner that won the Eph her second break of the third set and a chance to serve for the 2017 NCAA team title.

Raventos was at her most ruthless in the final game, and made no mistake on match point, whipping an inside-in forehand approach shot before coolly placing the subsequent volley into the open court, cuing deafening cheers from the Eph players and fans alike, as both celebrated the purple and gold's 5-4 triumph and their 8th National Championship in the last decade.

"This [NCAA championship] in particular is really special," Williams coach Alison Swain said after winning her eighth NCAA title. "To play two 5-4 matches two days in a row, (it's) incredible. Everybody was ready, every single person. And it takes a lot to get to that preparedness, especially after our match yesterday. I couldn't be more proud of my players."
