2017 CHAMPIONSHIP

HIGHLIGHTS

On Saturday, the Grizzlies totaled a team score of 47 to win the program's third NCAA DII Indoor team title: What a difference a year makes for the Adams State University women's Indoor Track & Field program. A season ago at the NCAA Division II Indoor Track & Field Championships, the ASU women tied for 16th with 15 points.

"Every single female on our team was the difference maker. Every single person. Not one individual stood out more than the other," said Head Coach Rock Light. "Our coaching staff, number two, preparing these kids. Number three, these girls said before the year we were going to get back on top. Last year we finished 16th at this meet. We won. So I can't be more proud of my school."

On the third, and final, day of the championship meet the Grizzlies accounted for 31 of their 47 points. The meet concluded with 10 First Team All-American nods for the women. "We knew our team was going to be really good. I didn't know we were going to be this good," Light added. "When we got here today, I reminded all the girls that it's 'today' now – we've talked about this. Let's go get it done."

On Saturday, the Grizzlies notched 11 team points in the women's 60m dash final as Dianna Johnson (7.34) ran her way to a national title. The sophomore shined late in the season with 60m and 200m dash RMAC titles before reigning supreme at the national championships. Her indoor season consisted of five first-place marks between the 60m and 200m dash events. Sunayna Wahi (7.63) placed eighth in the 60m dash to give Adams State a pair of All-Americans in the event. After her top preliminary mark on Friday, Wahi (23.67) placed second in the 200m dash final to conclude the meet as an All-American in the 60m and 200m dash.

Jenna Thurman remained busy at the championships as the junior took second in the women's 3000m at 9:23.78 to establish a new indoor school record. The previous school record was set by Thurman in February at the UW Open in Seattle. "It feels so amazing! It was awesome to just watch everyone race knowing that we all had to run as hard as we could for each other in order to win the title," Thurman said on Saturday. "In the 3K I was ranked fourth and I knew the points in the 3K would be critical for us to win, so I gave it everything I had even though my legs were tired at the end going on six miles of hard racing. I'm so proud of everyone, we all had amazing efforts."

Thurman was responsible for 24 team points over the course of the meet en route to earning First Team All-American status in the 5000m, 3000m, and DMR.

Roisin Flanagan (4:45.19) ran a personal-best in the women's mile to claim fifth place. The sophomore concluded the championship meet with All-American honors in the mile and as a member of the winning, and record-setting, Distance Medley Relay (DMR). The 4x400m relay team of Wahi, Johnson, Jessica Scherrer, and Leanne Allen placed 9th with a time of 3:45.34 to set a new ASU indoor school record. The time bested the previous school record mark of 3:46.86 set in 2016. With their finish, the 4x400m relay team earned Second Team All-American distinction.

In the team standings, ASU fended off Grand Valley State University (2nd place, 39 points) and RMAC foe Chadron State College (3rd place, 38 points).
